Japanese Smash Forward In Drive Through Malaya Toward Fortress.

BULLETIN

LONDON — (AP) — The air ministry news service declared today that the Japanese are using both Messerschmitt 109's and 110's — German fighter planes — in the air battle of Malaya. The Japanese previously had been reported manufacturing fighter planes based on Messerschmitt models but there had been no indication before that they possessed planes made in Germaney.

(By Associated Press)

SINGAPORE — Japanese forces have landed in Sarawak, a British area on the northwest coast of Borneo, it was announced today as the Japanese threw their land, sea and air forces into a spreading offensive around the South China sea.

The Japanese evidently were aiming for a quick knockout of British and Dutch strongholds, seizure of vital resources and control of the sea lanes by which reinforcements could reach the Allies.

Their effort apparently was to strike heavy and scattered blows before resistance could be organized and coordinated, but this seemed to be at least partly frustrated.

The Dutch disclosed that one of their planes, supporting British resistance to the enemy landing at Miri, Sarawak, had scored a direct hit on a Japanese destroyer.

Oil was an obvious objective at Miri but the Batavia radio said "everything was destroyed before the Japanese could land . . . even oil plants at the port of Miri have disappeared."

The Japanese landed at Miri and nearby Lubong, both only a short distance from the Sarawak border with British North Borneo. A communique said British

Red Cross Receives $4,000 In $30,000 Emergency Drive

The Richland county chapter of the Red Cross today reported that approximately $4,000 had been subscribed so far in its campaign to raise an emergency fund of $30,000.

The amount came largely from industries. The Retail Merchants association made plans at meeting today to check more than 400 business places in Mansfield for additional subscriptions.

Nickels, dimes and quarters are welcome workers said, but it will take dollar bills, 30,000 of them to raise the war-time quota to which Mansfield industries are subscribing with gifts of $1,000 while some of its citizens respond with only small change.

The "fact that people don't seem to understand there is a war," made itself known today to the fund-raising and public information committee of the Red Cross, according to W. J. Spreng, chairman.

Reports brought into headquarters by house to house solicitors indicate that people have no idea that this money is vital to furnishing medical and hospital supplies to the American armed forces as well as relief in American possessions in the war zone," said Spreng.

The Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company contributed $1,011 of which $500 was strictly a company donation, and $400, a gift from the employes' civic fund.

Gifts of $1,000 each were made by the Ohio Brass company, Tappan Stove company and Mansfield Tire and Rubber company.

Fire Nippon's Fuel Supplies On Luzon Coast

Bombers, Submarines Go Into Action; Tokyo Sets Up Cry of Alarm at Presence of 20 'Superior' Undersea Craft Near Japan.

(By Associated Press).

MANILA—U. S. bombers destroyed 26 Japanese planes and fired fuel supplies in a heavy attack yesterday on the beach head which the Japanese established last week at Vigan on the Luzon west coast, 200 miles from Manila, army headquarters announced today.

The announcement followed swiftly on an official disclosure that submarines of the U. S. Asiatic fleet had gone into action for the first time in the 11-day-old war with Japan, scoring successes the details of which were not immediately divulged.

(Meanwhile, in Tokyo a cry of alarm went up at the reported presence in Japanese waters of 20 U. S. submarines. A warning by Lieut. Comm. Kengo Tominaga of imperial headquarters to expect attacks by U. S. submarines brought home the war to Japan, whose own fleet was widely scattered, with some vessels assigned to hit-and-run shelling of Johnston and Maui islands near Hawaii.

Tominaga said the U. S. craft were of a superior 2,000-ton type with a cruising radius of 5,200 miles, and urged Japanese seamen to be on the alert for them.)

The communique announcing the attack on Vigan, launched apparently to prevent the Japanese from establishing air bases necessary for conquest of the Philippines, said there had been "no change in the land situation today."

The bulletin was issued at 4 p. m. (2 a. m. EST).

Of the Japanese planes destroyed, one was shot down in aerial combat and the remainder were wrecked on the ground, the communique declared.

The brief announcement said:

"The enemy at Vigan suffered heavily from an attack by our air force yesterday. One Japanese plane was shot down and at least 25 more were destroyed on the ground. Fuel supplies were set afire. There has been no change in the land situation today."

In a cryptic statement, Admiral Thomas C. Hart, commander of the fleet, declared that United States submarines had "made two successful attacks" and a third which failed to achieve its objective.

Hart said the defensive plan drawn up for the Asiatic fleet before the war called for counterblows in the event of Japanese aggression.

He said the fleet was not "en-

A committee from the Retail Merchants association called on City Solicitor Marion Ward, jr., and asked his co-operation in prosecuting to the limit anyone caught shoplifting.

Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch has indicated that no leniency will be extended to those found guilty of thefts.

Although shoplifting increases while stores are jammed during a holiday rush, police report that approximately three-fourths of the merchandise taken by shoplifters is recovered.

Hollywood Glamor Going to 'Settle' Here?

By ALVIN L. KRIEG

Hold on to your hats, folks, and to your real estate. Property values may go up. Mansfield may become the mecca of sightseers, as Hollywood has been in the past.

This startling possibility arose today, just before Humphrey Bogart, the well-known screen "heavy," stepped aboard the 12:23 train this afternoon for Chicago. Bogart, who was accompanied by his charming wife, former Actress Mayo Methot, announced proudly that his close friend of some 15 years, Author Louis Bromfield, had presented him one complete acre of his Malabar estate near Mansfield.

The Bogarts have been visiting there since last Thursday.

Not only does Bogart now own a genuine acre of land in the lovely rolling Ohio country, but he plans to set up a bungalow on the lot. (Many smaller places than that are called ranches out Hollywood way, Bogart hastens to point out.) This home in Ohio will become his vacation retreat, just the place to loaf for a month or so between pictures.

A little checking disclosed the interesting fact that not only Bogart, but three other well known screen players have been presented an acre apiece, all of their own, at Malabar. They are Mary Astor, Kay Francis, and William Gargan.

The Misses Astor and Francis, and now Bogart, have visited Malabar and personally inspected their acres in Ohio. But not Gargan. He hasn't visited here yet, so apparently has accepted his acre sight unseen.

Bogart too has now seen his acre, but he is a bit hazy about its geographical boundaries. It is,

U. S. GETS TWO ENEMY SHIPS, 26 WARPLANES

Bombers Fire Nippon Fuel Supply on Luzon; Tokyo Alarmed By Subs.

tirely ready" for Japan's surprise attack but nevertheless had been following its pre-arranged defensive plan with minor adjustments.

Of the surrender of 200 United States marines who were stranded in North China by the sudden hostilities, he declared that instructions to withdraw came "very late."

Hart explained that submarine commanders were not required to report on operations until their return to port, but said he had learned that some successes had been achieved.

Whether the attacks to which he referred were against Japanese naval forces or against merchant shipping remained a matter of speculation.

Disclosure of the submarine and plane operations was the only naval or military development of the day.

A communique issued by U. S. army headquarters shortly after 11 a. m. (9 p m. EST Tuesday) said merely:

"There is no change in the situation on the ground No air activity has been reported since yesterday."

The last sign of Japanese offensive operations against the stoutly defended Island of Luzon was a dawn attack yesterday on Olongapo naval base 60 miles northwest of Manila

The suppostion in unofficial quarters was that the Japanese were reorganizing their forces for an attempt to reinforce the troops they landed last week at three places—Vigan and Aparri in the north and Legaspi at the southern tip of the island.

Manila itself has not had an air-raid alarm since around noon Monday.

Advices from Lingayen on the Luzon west coast about 120 miles from Manila, where a Japanese landing force was reported crushed last week by a Filipino army division, indicated the native population there was quietly harvesting the rice crop.

From Pampanga province, between Manila and Lingayen, came belated reports that three Japanese airmen who bailed out of a burning bomber had been captured by excited natives, armed with bolos and sharpened sticks

In the Manila area, police reinforced their patrols in the Pasay and Paranaque districts near Nichols field following a report that the anti-American "Ganap" organization was plotting to create trouble

Arrest of Ramon Mantile, leader of the organization, was announced yesterday by Philippine secret police.

Police also tightened a cordon on the Pasay and Paranaque districts to prevent a southward exodus of Axis nationals.

The two districts — the only civilian areas of Manila proper damaged by Japanese air raiders —have been largely evacuated Reports that hastily-abandoned houses had been looted caused police to take sharp preventive measures.

Tojo Says Japs 'Pinch' Manila

BERLIN — (Official German News Agency D. N B Recorded by UP in London) — Japanese Premier-War Minister Gen. Hideki Tojo, in a war review before parliament, said today that "two Japanese columns have landed in northern and southern Luzon and now are on the march in the direction of Manila."

Official German news agency dispatches from Tokyo said that Tojo told parliament that "Japanese troops everywhere have penetrated the enemy defense lines on Luzon in order to occupy the island which the Americans previously in their bragging always declared was unassailable"

Tojo was quoted as saying that the capture of Guam was among the most outstanding results of Japanese activity."

"Japan thus destroyed the so-called encirclement ring and favorable strategic conditions have been created for final victory over Britain and America," he said

"Thanks to these initial successes the army has been able to carry out successful landings at several places."

In further discussion of the Philippines situation Tojo said that "already three days after the beginning of hostilities it was possible to land troops first in northern Luzon and then three days later in southern Luzon."

"Both of these groups now are on the march in a pincer movement in the direction of Manila," he said.

Japs Risk Ships In Hawaii Attack

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Japan, resorting to hit-and-run attacks near Hawaii, risked valuable warships today in an effort to divert some of the offensive strength of the U. S. Pacific fleet now at sea searching for the main enemy forces.

The tactics, evidenced by the shelling of Johnston and Maui islands for the first time in the war, tended to belie Tokyo's bland claim that the bulk of the American navy had been destroyed. They indicated that Japan was seeking to decoy as many U. S. ships as possible into a will-o'-the-wisp hunt for the nuisance raiders.

The navy department here, however, intimated that the fleet would not be distracted from its main mission, and reported tersely that operations against the enemy are continuing.

The attacks on Johnston and Maui, and a renewed assault on Wake island were disclosed in a communique last night, which stated that the actions had taken place in the preceding 24 hours.

Flowers Drape New Graves In Hawaii

HONOLULU—(UP)—Row upon row of fresh graves draped with the delicate flowers of the tropics, stretched across Nuuanu cemetery today. In them were buried the navy men killed when the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor.

Navy chaplains conducted brief services for them. Only the chaplains and a few sailors attended the funerals.

The graves were covered with green leaves and ferns, and over that were woven decorations in multi-colored flowers. One row of graves had a 10-foot "V for Victory," emblem fashioned of antherium.

Each grave was identified and will be marked later by a headstone.

being systematically undertaken on various sectors of the eastern front."

But Soviet dispatches pictured the Germans in headlong flight, by no means effecting a strategic withdrawal, with a Moscow communique declaring:

"The fleeing enemy is being pursued and annihilated by our troops"

Red army soldiers who recaptured strategic Kalinin, 95 miles northwest of Moscow, said they found that German troops had built four-tiered plank beds in houses throughout the Kalinin zone "evidently intending to spend the winter there."

The railway junction of Volovo, 160 miles south of Moscow, was among other cities listed as regained in drives radiating like the spokes of a wheel from the Moscow defense arc.

Pravda, the Communist organ, said 90 villages were recaptured by red army troops in central front action Monday as well as Klin, 50 miles northwest of the capital.

Moreover, the official Berlin radio spokesman shifted in a broadcast from comment on the exploits of "our victorious German army" to a discourse of the "unbelievable difficulties" under which Nazi troops were fighting in Russia.

On the North African front, British imperial headquarters reported that heavy British pressure was being maintained on the left flank of Hitler's battered desert armies and that new progress was registered despite fierce sandstorms during the past 24 hours

The German high command gave this terse summary of the fighting which clearly appeared to be turning into an Axis debacle.

"A heavy defensive battle west of Tobruk continued yesterday Strong enemy attacks near Bardia were repulsed with considerable losses to the enemy"

Premier Mussolini's high command said particularly heavy fighting raged all day yesterday in the Gazala sector 40 miles west of Tobruk, with the British continually throwing fresh forces into the battle.

A hint that the Italians may already be pulling out of North Africa cropped up in a British admiralty communique reporting that a Fascist submarine carrying an Italian general and 19 other military officers from Libya to Italy had been sunk in the central Mediterranean.

The admiralty said the general was not among the 53 survivors

In between the Libyan and Soviet fronts, fresh military activity was reported in Nazi-dominated Bulgaria, which anti-Axis observers long have expected Germany to use as a springboard for an invasion of Turkey and thence into the middle east

Dispatches from Ankara Turkey, said Bulgarian airfields were being enlarged and increased, with repair facilities for German planes.

Report Nazis Busy In Bulgaria

BERN, Switzerland — (AP) — Considerable German military activity in Bulgaria, of concern to Turkey, coupled with plans for a French-German conference on African colonies, was reported in European press dispatches today.

The Ankara, Turkey, correspondent of the Neue Zuercher said airfields were being enlarged and increased in Bulgaria along with repair facilities for German planes.

The correspondent said Bulgaria's declaration of war against the United States had "caused much anxiety in Turkey."

he reports, "just up the creek from the house." Which naturally gives rise to the possibility that the Bogart retreat will come to be known as "Up the Creek Villa" or something of the sort.

This is not to suggest that Malabar acres will be passed out indiscriminately to Hollywood personages. After all, the estate has only about 700 acres. There is a major requisite, and that is, to qualify, the potential recipient must be an old friend of the Bromfields.

Bogart, known to his friends as "Bogey," is a city boy through and through. He was born in New York city, the son of a doctor. He attended Trinity school and Andover, and from there, without completing his studies, entered the navy in the last war. He served for two years as a first class seaman in the transport service

On his return to this country after the war, he spent a year in a bank, as an assistant purchasing agent, and six months as a tug inspector for the Pennsylvnia railroad. Then he decided on a stage career, with some encouragement from a family friend, Producer William A. Brady. For about 10 years he played college boy roles, and then the part of Gangster Duke Mantee, in "Petrified Forese," came along.

As a gangster, Bogart clicked immediately. And in the seven years since that time, he has played in more than 35 films, and in every one he's been the "heavy" His favorites among all the pictures, in which he's appeared are "Petrified Forest," "High Sierra," and "Maltese Falcon."

Does he mind being typed, always being a thug or murderer? Not the least bit, Bogart says cheerfully He enjoys all his roles.

ROTARY CLUB'S SANTA VISITS CHILDREN AT SUNSHINE SCHOOL

A visit from Santa Claus and distribution of gifts highlighted the annual Rotary club party for children of Sunshine school, held Tuesday noon at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

While the children were enjoying a turkey dinner, music was furnished by a group from the high school orchestra, under direction of S. K. Jorgenson, after which Sunshine pupils presented a Christmas playlet directed by their teachers, Miss Eileen Fessenden and Miss Florence Gillespie. Costumes used were made by the children.

Entertainment features included dances by a group of students from the Marty Hogan studio and an exhibition in magic by Ronald Boffenmeyer, of Ashland, with Mrs. Boffenmeyer at the piano.

Readily identified as Floyd Dent, Santa Claus arrived on schedule and presented gifts in accord with each child's desires.

Hartman served as a special committee to arrange the party; Rev. and Mrs. Glenn Lewis selected the gifts and Fred Frankeberger was chairman of the transportation committee. W. L. 2,300,000 ON LIST IN OHIO

Census Figures Reveal Number Affected If New Draft Law Passes.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Approximately 2,300,000 Ohio men will be registered by the draft system if congress approves the war department's proposal to register men between 18 and 64 years old, census figures showed today.

In the two previous draft registrations 891,218 Ohioans were registered—840,707 in the first call in October, 1940, for the 21-35 group and an additional 40,511 in the second registration last July for those who had reached their 21st birthday since the first registration.

According to preliminary census figures there are about 62,150 18-year-old men in Ohio, the same number of 19-year-olds, and 58,380 20-year-olds.

A new group of approximately 464,000 who are between 36 and 44 would be eligible for armed service These men have not registered previously. Another group, 45-64, totaling approximately 762,980, would be registered but not subject to military service.

U. S. Setting Up Censorship Of Press, Radio, Foreign Mail

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Censorship of the press, radio, cables and foreign mails was all but law today. Congress was looking for legislative shortcuts to affirm these and other wartime powers for President Roosevelt before sundown.

Only minor differences between bills passed yesterday by the house and senate remained to be ironed out before the censorship, which Mr Roosevelt acknowledged "all Americans abhor," became a fact.

The job of administering censorship "in harmony with the best interests of our free institutions" was the responsibility of Byron Price, on leave from the executive news editorship of the Associated Press. He will set up his office in Washington Friday morning, responsible directly to the president.

Besides erecting a barrier against filtration of military data to the Axis, the new, broad grant of power to the chief executive would authorize him to re-allocate federal functions, grant contracts without bidding, revise contracts and control completely the financial transactions of aliens.

Mr. Roosevelt at his press conference yesterday outlined a partly voluntary, partly compulsory censorship over all media of communication, and announced Price's appointment as director of censorship.

The 50-year-old newsman, who asked and obtained a leave from the Associated Press once before —to join the A.E.F. and win the bars of an infantry captain overseas—left his post in New York yesterday. He could not discuss his plans, he said, until he was established in Washington.

But the "splendid attitude" already shown by press and radio, Price added, should "make my job a good deal easier." Already news-gathering organizations, newspapers, and the radio have agreed voluntarily to withhold news of troop and ship movements.

DELIVER MILK UNDER GUARD

Dairymen Move Products Into Detroit Despite Strike.

DETROIT —(AP)— The Michigan Milk Producers association moved its delivery trucks to Detroit today along highways guarded by state police as the United Dairy farmers, a rival organization, declared a milk strike effective in the metropolitan area.

Automobile squads of UDF members were sent out this morning in an attempt to persuade non-striking dairymen not to ship milk to the city, but the effect of the squads' activities could not be determined immediately.

A nine-man arbitration board taking testimony on the Detroit milk dispute is expected to make a ruling Saturday,

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1941.

It is now being recalled that a scientist recently predicted that our next war would be with insects.

The past ten days have shown that congressmen are at their best when they at least temporarily disregard partisan politics.

According to Berlin, Hitler is withdrawing some troops from Russia—but Moscow reports indicate that "withdrawing" may not be a carefully chosen word.

America Is Now 'On the Alert'

THE THING that made it possible for Japan to succeed in its treacherous attack on Pearl Harbor, and elsewhere in the Pacific, was the fact that Americans had failed to realize the utter bestiality of Japanese militarists.

Peaceful relations existed between these two countries at the time of the onslaught and all representations of Japanese spokesmen in Washington carried renewed assurance of earnest desire to find a way to maintain peace in the Pacific.

It was from reasoning based on assumption of national honor that United States forces in Hawaii were "not on the alert" Sunday morning, December 7, and thus fell victims of the sneak attack of bandits equipped with the weapons of modern warfare.

One of the most heartening things coming out of the disastrous Pearl Harbor tragedy is the speed with which Navy Secretary Knox went to Hawaii, made a personal investigation and returned to issue a clear and complete report of what had happened, including losses of men, ships, planes and equipment.

The shock that resulted from early reports of the occurrence, followed by rumors which exaggerated losses or misrepresented actual conditions, made it important for a competent and dependable observer to report facts as quickly as possible and this has been done by Secretary Knox.

The sorrow that is felt for the loss of almost three thousand lives is mingled with pride in the heroism of the men who sacrificed their lives and in the valor of those who lived through the vicious and entirely unexpected assault from the air.

One fact that stands out is that losses in ships and damage to military equipment was comparatively minor and will in no way hamper the effectiveness of naval operations in the Pacific, which was the clear intent of Japan's deceptive moves in recent weeks and months.

There will be formal investigation in an effort to place responsibility for failure to be in readiness at Pearl Harbor. Meanwhile it seems best to withhold judgment and refrain from adverse criticism. There is no question about America now being "on the alert."

Frayed Nerves Prevent Sleep

AN EPIDEMIC of insomnia is reported to be spreading over this country and inability to sleep soundly through the night has been noted by many people who had heretofore been unaccustomed to that disturbing ailment.

Loss of sleep serves poorly to equip people for the next day's work, and it is more important now than ever before that each day's work be done to the limit of ability.

The calmness and poise with which President Roosevelt speaks to the nation, even in times of greatest stress, provides an example of controlled emotions which may well be followed by others, as it is upon his shoulders that the greatest responsibility now rests.

It is suggested that people who find it difficult, or impossible, to go to sleep soon after retiring would do well to avoid subjecting themselves to the shock of listening to frequently repeated news bulletins, and to divert their thoughts as far as possible from war for a couple of hours before bedtime.

Attention is also being directed to the increasing importance of reducing unnecessary night noises to a minimum and added impetus is being given to anti-noise campaigns in many cities, to prevent needless auto horn-honking during the daytime as well as at night—this being nerve-racking even under normal conditions and especially disturbing to invalids and insomniacs who are frequently roused from light slumber in the middle of the night by thoughtless horn-honking motorists on residence streets or in the vicinity of hotels and hospitals.

Needless horn-honking in Mansfield, which was considerably reduced a few months ago when public attention was being directed to that subject, is again on the increase and this would be a good time to do something about it.

Move To Prevent 'Panic Buying'

JASON B. GROSSMAN, president of a wholesale grocers' association, has set in motion a program for orderly handling of the nation's foodstuffs.

"The industry should take the initiative," he says, "in heading off panic among housewives. The first thing is to give the public the facts about supplies of foodstuffs on hand. For instance, we have a tremendous supply of wheat, and there is no need for anybody to worry.

"We should have a public relations division to keep the public and the retail grocers informed. Clerks should be given information to pass on to customers. Information should be made available to the newspapers.

"The second point of my plan is the formation, by wholesale grocers who would be representatives of their associations, of a state board that would work with the federal government to control prices and eliminate speculative profits."

This impresses an observer as practical patriotism. It should have wholehearted public support where it has been started. States that have not already launched similar programs might well copy this one.

Cod-Liver Oil Substitute

LEST the children fear they will be deprived of their cod-liver oil because of war curtailment of the Norwegian fishing industry, here is reassurance for them. Fishermen of the Pacific Northwest have turned their attention to soup fin sharks. The livers of these fish contain highly concentrated deposits of Vitamin A. They are said to be 50 to 100 times as rich in it as cod-liver oil.

In 1938 soup fin livers brought only $7 a ton. Today they are worth $100. So good is the trade that some people are discussing the possibility of raising soup fins commercially.

The decision of Governor Talmadge, of Georgia, not to extend clemency to convicted floggers, has met with an expression of public approval—much to his surprise.

Question to Parents

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

ALL this talk about Young America's rudeness, selfishness, ingratitude, rowdyism. But are the youngsters really so much to blame? Or have we modern parents fallen down on our jobs—do we lack the gumption and good sense to control our own children as our parents did?

"HAVE WE BECOME TOO LAZY . . . TOO TOLERANT . . . ACTUALLY TOO COWARDLY OR ABSORBED IN OUR OWN FUN TO DO OUR DUTY BY THEM?"

"An American Mother" wants to know. And if you've a taste for mental Stuka Bombs, here's your dish.

It all began with a yellow satin formal for 14-year-old Polly's first High School party. And ended—in nothing flat—with Dad banging the front door, Mom locked in her bedroom and Polly prostrate on the davenport in a storm of tears. Answer? Obvious. Polly gets the formal. They can't afford it. She doesn't really need it—the last bunch of frills is only a month old. But she'll get it. Which leaves us exactly where? Mom doesn't know . . . wishes you'd tell her.

"There's nothing unusual about our home," she wails. "It's happening everywhere. Youngsters demanding luxuries and liberties we mothers didn't have until we were married—and which our own mothers never had at all. Then, if they're denied, there's a scene. Yet many of them come from the finest people and the loveliest homes. But you'd never guess it from the way they act!

"I think of my own parents. They were wonderful to us, gave us everything they possibly could. But there was no fooling in our home; their word was law and we knew it. I realize now that Mother must have had a pretty dull time when we were growing up; she hardly ever went out. But was she right and are we wrong? SHOULD MOTHERS ACCEPT DULL TIMES WHEN THEIR FAMILIES ARE YOUNG? HAVE WE GROWN SO SELFISH THAT WE ARE LETTING OUR CHILDREN BECOME HOODLUMS?

"Recently I saw three exhibitions in public that would have created a village scandal in my youth. I didn't know the young people but they were all in their 'teens, nicely dressed and apparently well brought up. But—

"The first young couple was parked on the highway and indulging in the frankest 'petting party' I have ever seen. It was still light . . . and everyone stopped to stare, but the youngsters didn't give it a thought. In the next group there were three girls—none over 17—two of them helping the third out of a smart cocktail bar. All three were smoking and had, obviously been drinking. The barkeeper looked a little concerned but everyone else seemed to take it for granted.

"The last sight was at a grammar school party. Most of the children were dressed in the best taste and acting accordingly. But one little girl—not a day over 13—was so undressed she looked as if she'd come from a burlesque show. Her poor, skinny little body looked like a picked chicken. Her face was smeared with makeup and mascara. She should have been in her bed. Instead she was screeching, flinging herself into a rhumba.

"I'm not saying these children are doomed. I'm sure they're not. But the thing that really shocks me is our adult attitude toward it all. Once, every decent older person would have felt duty-bound to make some protest against such displays. Now we shrug our shoulders, say it isn't our business. And if we do try to take a stand, the neighbors say we are old fogies and pity the children. Naturally, the children feel justified in doing anything they want, sneaking out if we won't let them go openly.

"ELSIE, I WISH YOU'D ASK OUR FATHERS AND MOTHERS WHAT THEY THINK OF IT ALL? AM I REALLY AN OLD FOGY? OR ARE WE PARENTS ACTUALLY CONTRIBUTING TO THE DELINQUENCY OF OUR OWN MINORS?

"An American Mother."

So there it is. Now for your answer—?

Hospital Care At Moderate Cost.

—By DR. CLENDENING

I AM in receipt of an account of the operation of the Baker Memorial Hospital in Boston for people of moderate means. This report covers the period of its existence from 1930 to 1939.

The idea of a hospital where people of moderate means could have access to modern skills in diagnosis and treatment was suggested as long ago as 1910 by Dr. Frederic A. Washburn, Director of Massachusetts General Hospital. In 1924 Mrs. Mary Richardson contributed a generous gift for such a hospital in memory of her parents, Richard Baker, Jr., and Ellen Maria Baker.

For Those of Slender Means.

The idea of the hospital hardly needs any elaboration beyond the mere statement of its purpose. "People of moderate means" which is a sufficiently understandable designation, were receiving less efficient care in the case of sickness than others of the community.

Self-respect prevented them from applying for free ward care and their resources would not permit them to apply to a private hospital for treatment where rates must necessarily be higher since the private hospital must be self-supporting. The result was that their physicians were not able to give them the benefit of all the modern resources of diagnosis, examination and treatment.

Satisfactory Record.

Such was the theory and whatever theoretical objection the medical profession may have to it, the record of the hospital for ten years has been entirely satisfactory.

The patient at the Baker Memorial Hospital pays from $4.50 to $6.00 a day according to the desirability of the room. Insurance cases in the nine-bed ward pay $6.00 to $24 per week and patients with tuberculosis pay the same. The laboratory fee for special procedures is $10, X-ray from $5.00 to $50. Routine laboratory work not of a special character is included in the fee for a room.

The staff of physicians and surgeons agree upon an upper limit of $150, payable by any patient for medical and surgical service. The average fee is about $70 for each patient.

Nursing Service Excellent.

In 1939 there was an average of 208 patients a day and during the year there were 573 births. There were over 3,000 surgical operations and 1,600 medical patients.

In a questionnaire sent to patients the replies showed that 94 per cent of patients were satisfied and often enthusiastic about the nursing service. Only about 12 per cent of the replies expressed criticisms of the coffee, radio service, time of meals or other details.

The payment of the attending physician or surgeon through the hospital was approved as fair and convenient by most of the patients. About one-third said they would not have known otherwise how to secure hospital care.

America First Committee's Plans Sunk By Japan's Surprise Attack

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Those who knew General Douglas MacArthur in France are not surprised at the superb job he is doing in defending the Philippines.

During the last war he was one of the army's bravest and most picturesque higher officers. Once when he wanted some information about the enemy he went over the top himself, took a German dugout by surprise and came back with a prisoner. He got bawled out for it, because no general is supposed to expose himself to fire. But his men worshipped him.

As chief of staff in Washington during the Hoover administration, MacArthur was an energetic go-getter for anything the army needed, and a good organizer. In the Philippines this organizing ability has been one of his greatest assets, for he has had the task not only of building up a Philippine army, but getting co-operation with the U. S. army, the air corps and the marines.

Incidentally, MacArthur is following in the footsteps of a soldier father, General Arthur MacArthur, who became famous for cleaning up the Philippines after the Spanish-American war.

America First.

ONE PLACE where the surprise Japanese assault really created consternation was in inner America First circles.

The isolationist generalissimos were as completely sunk as the ships bombed to the bottom of Pearl Harbor.

Just a week previous, America First leaders had embarked on a new line of operations—open political activity—and had even gone so far as to spend a large sum of money for the campaign of an isolationist candidate in the Seventh Massachusetts district.

Their No. 1 limelight attraction, ex-hero Lindbergh, was all set to take the stump in this fight. Also, he was quietly weighing whether to toss his hat into the 1942 congressional elections arena.

But the Japanese attack blasted all these ambitious schemes to smithereens—including the America First committee itself—though not until after a sharp dispute among the inner leaders.

They split over the future of the organization. One group, led by General Robert Wood, favored immediate dissolution and full support of President Roosevelt in the prosecution of the war. Another group wanted to hold off for a while to see what developed.

Politics First.

AMONG those who wanted to wait were Edwin S. Webster, secretary of the New York chapter, and leaders of the Bronx chapter, all bitter Roosevelt haters. Webster felt so hotly over dissolution of the committee that he talked of rushing out to Chicago to try to persuade Wood to change his mind.

He contended the America First organization should be kept intact to take advantage of any opportunities for continued political warring on the president; and to oppose any presidential candidate who advocated Roosevelt policies in 1944.

Lindbergh is Webster's White House candidate and he wants America First to stay in business to push the flyer. Webster has certain opinions about the outcome and aftermath of the war and thinks there is a big political future for Lindbergh.

Following a meeting of the America First executive committee in Chicago, however, General Wood's plan was approved and the disbanding order went out.

Note—Certain leaders of the die-hard faction consider starting a new America First organization under different trappings. The new outfit would take the guise of a super-patriotic movement beating the drums for ultra-nationalism.

"Strictest Confidence."

MEMBERS of the senate naval affairs committee know the whole story of what happened at Pearl Harbor, including the reasons why U. S. forces were caught napping.

They were given a detailed account of the disaster by their chairman, Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, after he and Representative Carl Vinson of Georgia, chairman of the house naval affairs committee, were given a confidential fill-in by Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations.

Walsh gave his colleagues the information in "strictest confidence," and on condition they wouldn't breathe a word to anyone, even their wives. Vinson, however, was less trusting. The Georgian flatly refused to tell his committee what he had learned from Stark, insisting it was up to the president to make known the facts at the proper time.

The president hit the ceiling when he heard about Stark's off the record disclosures. Calling Stark on the carpet, he bluntly demanded why the admiral had not consulted him before talking to Walsh and Vinson. Stark replied that he thought he was acting with White House approval and that as all members of congress were clamoring for information about the Pearl Harbor disaster, he thought responsible leaders such as chairmen of the naval committees were entitled to know.

The president said he realized this, but is was too early to make a report. He also tartly reminded the navy chief of the number of news leaks on the Hill.

Stark suddenly called off his scheduled appearance before Vinson's committee.

Note—Naval circles say the Japanese must know the extent of the damage caused by their air attack, since, after the first wave of bombers, the second wave gets photographs which show the extent of the damage, and the third wave gets final photos of the fires and sinkings.

BLACKOUT TIP: If your windows are equipped with Venetian blinds, adjust them at night so that the slats turn upward on the inside. However, don't depend upon this alone for total blackout precautions. Special blackout curtains or drapes are safer. . . . The outbreak of the war obscured the incident, but the house ate crow in a big way on its action last summer barring David Lasser, former head of the Workers Alliance, from government employment. After a careful investigation, the appropriations committee completely exonerated Lasser of any Communist affiliations. Representatives John Taber, N. Y., J. W. Ditter, Pa., and Everett Dirksen, Ill., who made the original accusation ducked the committee session when Lasser was cleared. . . . Best tobacco juice marksman in congress is Representative A. Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I don't know who he was. Can't ever remember hearing his name. But whoever he was, long ago and far away some bleached out old sourdough slid off his tired burro in the late afternoon, squinted through the alkali haze, and drawled, "That's gold in them hills."

He was right about the gold, all right, but he was wrong about the hills. Them wasn't hills. What he thought was hills couldn't have been anything but a brand new copy of the New Yorker magazine.

I offer this as proof: five sets of playwrights have dramatized five different series of articles from the New Yorker into five outstanding Broadway hits. That's bonanza. That's pay dirt the old Silver City way. When I think how hard they must work just bending over picking up the nuggets, I have to sit down and rest.

You want a tag to those lodes? They popped in this order: (a) Life With Father, (b) My Sister Eileen, (c) Pal Joey, (d) Mr. and Mrs. North, (e) Junior Miss.

BUT wait, podnah, that ain't all. Comes next "Hotel Splendide," which was a New Yorker sequence, is already a book, and soon will be a Rodgers & Hart musical.

"Life With Father," "Pal Joey," "My Sister Eileen" and "Junior Miss" are still running. Junior is the baby of the lot, and when it arrived all the critics yelled in chorus, "The town has a new hit." I think this is a record unequalled anywhere in the annals of the theater.

BERT ALLERTON used to be an oil salesman, but he decided he would have more fun being a magician. Presto, he became one, and consider yourself lucky if, on your rounds of New York, he drifts over to your table. Bert deals in magic close-up, and at our table at the Pierre the other night he changed the color and size of a deck of cards, made sponges multiply and disappear, drove a glass tumbler through a table. Gray-haired, but with a dapper black mustache, Bert is one of those fellows you feel you have known for years. Best of his tricks has nothing to do with magic. He pencils some bird tracks on a piece of paper, outlines them swiftly in black, and before you can say Dniepropetrovsk there is your own name.

IT TURNED out to be a good break for Monica Moore when the Australian girl came to these shores as a singer with the International Casino. She has been kept busy since, with an intimate kind of give-and-take which keeps supper crowds (not her, y'unnerstan') from being self-conscious. A two-week engagement at the Cafe Pierre stretched into months, to be followed by 16 weeks this winter in the Latin Quarter at Miami Beach. When some of the "we who are about to die" Australian pilots come to New York for a fling, Monica was one of those who grabbed the checks.

A Farmer's Diary

Dirt on My Shoes

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

SOME columnists write of Broadway; some sing the praises of the Loop. Many love the surge and hum of the big city—and I do not blame them. Cities are fascinating. But let me go into a barn where the hay is stored and bury my face in the fragrant mow and stretch full length upon the softness of it, and I find solacing memories that renew my strength.

Although withered, dry and aging it still contains the sunshine of the summer meadow, the dew of early morning with the sweet note of the meadow lark and the little grassy hollows filled with long thin zones of fog; the buttercup that stands open toward the rising sun, the purple morning glory and the fresh, moist daisy.

And there along the openings between the rails of rustic fence the chipmunk rushes headlong, then sits high on a nearby stump and chatters noisily; the lumbering groundhog flexes his flimsy muscles from the clover pasture to his place of cover.

The fragrant elder at the corners of the old rail fence holds high its creamy heads of lace; purple cones of luscious raspberries mingle with the sprightly clusters of red and green; the blue-eyed grass reflects the color of the sky.

The mower comes, powered by two heavy horses; the thick moist swath dances on the vibrating cutterbar and falls back upon the bleeding stubbles; the drab brood-ing pheasant calls low in terror and thunders from before the cruel knives. In the warm sunny afternoon the long green windrows, like giant serpents, bind in the center the uncut grass. The same team lazily pulls the loader until the mighty load is high above the uprights, the driver a mere dot, the team pigmies before the moving hay.

Summer days are warm and working hours are long and tiresome, yet there is peculiar joy in the farmer's way of life.

It is a freer, more natural, more secluded way. The sunshine, the wind, the rain, the wideness of the open spaces, challenge every nature loving heart.

The dirt of the fields and roadside ditches is always on my shoes, even when I go to town. I am not embarrassed not to know the celebrities who frequent the night spots of Broadway. They are not embarrassed, either. Brilliant stars of Hollywood do not shine on my horizon.

I am much happier to be on speaking terms with the graceful, gliding swallow; to know the smell of hay, the odor of freshly turned earth; to work with my hands until my heart is warmed toward other workers, everywhere; instead of city bright lights, to behold the heavenly stars.

JAPS LAND IN BORNEO, SPREAD 3-WAY ATTACK

Dutch Score Hit on Enemy Destroyer; Nipponese Gain In Malaya.

forces destroyed oil refineries, wells and other machinery and withdrew before the invaders landed.

This was the newest spread of Japan's tactics of scattered blows, all correlated with the chief drive against Singapore, the core of Britain's far eastern defenses.

Besides landing on northern Malaya, 400 miles north of Singapore, and attacking through quickly-dominated Thailand, the Japanese also have seized the mainland region of Hongkong, Britain's No. 2 far eastern stronghold.

On the northwest Malaya front, where the Japanese are smashing forward in a drive aimed at Singapore, advices reaching London said Japanese troops, fighting like fanatics, were throwing themselves into the teeth of British artillery and machine-gun fire in perhaps the heaviest battle of the Far East theater.

With the fate of northwest Malaya and its principal city and island base, Penang, apparently at stake, British troops were reported violently counter-attacking the Japanese invaders. Singapore lies about 400 miles south of the battle area, on the tip of the Malay peninsula.

British military observers said the acknowledged inability of the British Far East fleet to dominate Malaya waters and Thailand's quick sell-out to Japan had gravely heightened Singapore's danger from the Japanese drive through Malaya.

Japanese troops, pouring into the fight from Thailand, were admittedly well-equipped and operating with strong aerial support.

Hongkong Awaiting All-Out Attack

HONGKONG—(INS)—British forces in Hongkong were on the alert today to meet all Japanese attacks, whether by land, sea or air.

With heavy air and artillery assaults already under way, authorities were fully prepared to resist to the utmost an expected all-out Japanese effort to seize this strategic British Far Eastern outpost.

Jap planes dropped pamphlets on Hongkong setting forth fantastic claims in an effort to scare residents of the British crown colony.

These leaflets claimed the Japanese are advancing into India and even said the Germans have captured Moscow—evidently giving a picture of Japanese wishful thinking at its most fanciful.

Chinese Press Canton Attack

CHUNGKING—(Radio Chungking, heard by the United Press in London)—Chinese troops counter-attacking in the Canton area are making progress against the Japanese in efforts to relieve Japanese pressure on Hongkong, a Chinese government communique said today.

On Sunday, according to the communique, the Chinese recaptured an important village adjacent to the Kowloon-Canton railway.

Study Reports Japs Take Portuguese Isle

LONDON—(U.P.)—A foreign office commentator said today that the British government was "in touch" with Portugal on reports that the Japanese had occupied the Portuguese island of Macao off the China coast near Hongkong and intimated that Portugal might be involved in the war if the reports proved true.

LISBON—(U.P.)—Reports abroad that Japanese forces had occupied the Portuguese island of Macao, 35 miles west of Hongkong, were denied by a government spokesman today.

Expect Change In British Command

LONDON—(INS)—Changes in the British Far Eastern command as a result of reverses in Malaya were predicted in London today.

While the London press unanimously demanded "fresh blood" to recoup losses already suffered, there was a strong likelihood that all available fighter and naval reinforcements would be dispatched to Malaya without delay.

There was a storm of criticism over handling of the situation both in and out of parliament.

The News Chronicle boldly came out with a demand that the me.. responsible for the present Malayan situation "should ruthlessly be deprived of their commands."

Helping the national defense cause and their school at the same time, pupils in the Prospect school collected enough waste paper and old magazines to contribute $85.45 to the purchase price of a new motion picture machine for the school. General Reveals Fraud nl Attempt To Get Funds.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Men claiming to be army officers are obtaining money from soldiers' parents under various types of false pretenses, Maj. Gen. Daniel Van Voorhis, commanding general of the fifth corps area, warned today.

"Every army officer is issued an identification card with his photograph, finger prints and signatures," General Van Voorhis said. "To prevent the continued practice of these 'confidence men' the public should demand the identification of all persons representing themselves as army officers."

whether to make any recommendations for action or simply to submit their findings.

Shultz said that he hoped to confer with Porch before tonight's meeting to make a decision.

He indicated that the moves contemplated would cost in the neighborhood of $6,000 to $7,000.

City Solicitor Marion D. Ward, jr., said today that the mayor had not asked him to draw up appropriation legislation of any kind as yet.

The mayor said tonight's meeting would not be "secret" but open to the public.

Among the protection moves suggested at the meeting a week ago were the fencing in of the Maxwell springs pumping station, Woodland reservoir and installation of flood-lighting of those properties.

It is expected however that some action would be taken upon the suggestion made by Police Chief Meade K. Bates to council last week-end when that body met in "secret" but informal session with police and defense officials.

At that time Bates suggested that council hire guards to patrol the city's water-pumping station at Maxwell Springs and the Woodland reservoir, and that residents using the road passing the station be checked by some kind of identification system.

The police chief also informed council that it would be well to transfer the police radio station from the basement to the third floor in order to insure the maintenance of the police communication system. Other suggestions by Bates included screening the windows of the police station and the pumping station.

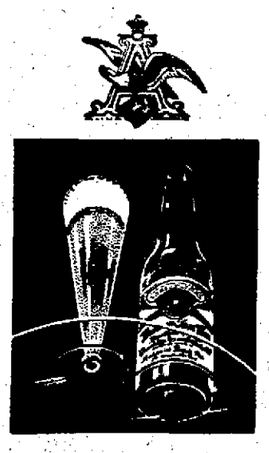
When all America calls for the best, it's a large order

America always makes up its mind about quality slowly and carefully. But, once it is certain that a product is the best of its kind, America quickly demands its production on a tremendous scale.

With more Budweiser than ever before, there has not been enough to go 'round



Never before in history has there been a situation like this:

A vast expansion program carried on for eight years made it possible for the world's largest brewery to produce more beer in 1941 than ever before has come from a single brewery or group of breweries operating under one management — and yet it was impossible for us to fill all orders.

Such a demand, previously unheard of for any similar product, made it difficult to maintain adequate distribution in all of the 48 states at all times. Through it all, our dealers have shown great patience and for this we are grateful.

America prefers Budweiser. Your own preference for Budweiser is a compliment to your own good taste—proof that you recognize the outstanding quality that has made Budweiser the biggest-selling beer in history.

With the completion of our expansion program, we trust that you now are getting Budweiser whenever you call for it.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1941.

It is now being recalled that a scientist recently predicted that our next war would be with insects.

The past ten days have shown that congressmen are at their best when they at least temporarily disregard partisan politics.

According to Berlin, Hitler is withdrawing some troops from Russia—but Moscow reports indicate that "withdrawing" may not be a carefully chosen word.

America Is Now 'On the Alert'

THE THING that made it possible for Japan to succeed in its treacherous attack on Pearl Harbor, and elsewhere in the Pacific, was the fact that Americans had failed to realize the utter bestiality of Japanese militarists.

Peaceful relations existed between these two countries at the time of the onslaught and all representations of Japanese spokesmen in Washington carried renewed assurance of earnest desire to find a way to maintain peace in the Pacific.

It was from reasoning based on assumption of national honor that United States forces in Hawaii were "not on the alert" Sunday morning, December 7, and thus fell victims of the sneak attack of bandits equipped with the weapons of modern warfare.

One of the most heartening things coming out of the disastrous Pearl Harbor tragedy is the speed with which Navy Secretary Knox went to Hawaii, made a personal investigation and returned to issue a clear and complete report of what had happened, including losses of men, ships, planes and equipment.

The shock that resulted from early reports of the occurrence, followed by rumors which exaggerated losses or misrepresented actual conditions, made it important for a competent and dependable observer to report facts as quickly as possible and this has been done by Secretary Knox.

The sorrow that is felt for the loss of almost three thousand lives is mingled with pride in the heroism of the men who sacrificed their lives and in the valor of those who lived through the vicious and entirely unexpected assault from the air.

One fact that stands out is that losses in ships and damage to military equipment was comparatively minor and will in no way hamper the effectiveness of naval operations in the Pacific, which was the clear intent of Japan's deceptive moves in recent weeks and months.

There will be formal investigation in an effort to place responsibility for failure to be in readiness at Pearl Harbor. Meanwhile it seems best to withhold judgment and refrain from adverse criticism. There is no question about America now being "on the alert."

Frayed Nerves Prevent Sleep

AN EPIDEMIC of insomnia is reported to be spreading over this country and inability to sleep soundly through the night has been noted by many people who had heretofore been unaccustomed to that disturbing ailment.

Loss of sleep serves poorly to equip people for the next day's work, and it is more important now than ever before that each day's work be done to the limit of ability.

The calmness and poise with which President Roosevelt speaks to the nation, even in times of greatest stress, provides an example of controlled emotions which may well be followed by others, as it is upon his shoulders that the greatest responsibility now rests.

It is suggested that people who find it difficult, or impossible, to go to sleep soon after retiring would do well to avoid subjecting themselves to the shock of listening to frequently repeated news bulletins, and to divert their thoughts as far as possible from war for a couple of hours before bedtime.

Attention is also being directed to the increasing importance of reducing unnecessary night noises to a minimum and added impetus is being given to anti-noise campaigns in many cities, to prevent needless auto horn-honking during the daytime as well as at night—this being nerve-racking even under normal conditions and especially disturbing to invalids and insomniacs who are frequently roused from light slumber in the middle of the night by thoughtless horn-honking motorists on residence streets or in the vicinity of hotels and hospitals.

Needless horn-honking in Mansfield, which was considerably reduced a few months ago when public attention was being directed to that subject, is again on the increase and this would be a good time to do something about it.

Move To Prevent 'Panic Buying'

JASON B. GROSSMAN, president of a wholesale grocers' association, has set in motion a program for orderly handling of the nation's foodstuffs.

"The industry should take the initiative," he says, "in heading off panic among housewives. The first thing is to give the public the facts about supplies of foodstuffs on hand. For instance, we have a tremendous supply of wheat, and there is no need for anybody to worry.

"We should have a public relations division to keep the public and the retail grocers informed. Clerks should be given information to pass on to customers. Information should be made available to the newspapers.

"The second point of my plan is the formation, by wholesale grocers who would be representatives of their associations, of a state board that would work with the federal government to control prices and eliminate speculative profits."

This impresses an observer as practical patriotism. It should have wholehearted public support where it has been started. States that have not already launched similar programs might well copy this one.

Cod-Liver Oil Substitute

LEST the children fear they will be deprived of their cod-liver oil because of war curtailment of the Norwegian fishing industry, here is reassurance for them. Fishermen of the Pacific Northwest have turned their attention to soup fin sharks. The livers of these fish contain highly concentrated deposits of Vitamin A. They are said to be 50 to 100 times as rich in it as cod-liver oil.

In 1938 soup fin livers brought only $7 a ton. Today they are worth $100. So good is the trade that some people are discussing the possibility of raising soup fins commercially.

The decision of Governor Talmadge, of Georgia, not to extend clemency to convicted floggers, has met with an expression of public approval—much to his surprise.

Question to Parents

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

ALL this talk about Young America's rudeness, selfishness, ingratitude, rowdyism. But are the youngsters really so much to blame? Or have we modern parents fallen down on our jobs—do we lack the gumption and good sense to control our own children as our parents did?

"HAVE WE BECOME TOO LAZY . . . TOO TOLERANT . . . ACTUALLY TOO COWARDLY OR ABSORBED IN OUR OWN FUN TO DO OUR DUTY BY THEM?"

"An American Mother" wants to know. And if you've a taste for mental Stuka Bombs, here's your dish.

It all began with a yellow satin formal for 14-year-old Polly's first High School party. And ended—in nothing flat—with Dad banging the front door, Mom locked in her bedroom and Polly prostrate on the davenport in a storm of tears. Answer? Obvious. Polly gets the formal. They can't afford it. She doesn't really need it—the last bunch of frills is only a month old. But she'll get it. Which leaves us exactly where? Mom doesn't know . . . wishes you'd tell her.

"There's nothing unusual about our home," she wails. "It's happening everywhere. Youngsters demanding luxuries and liberties we mothers didn't have until we were married—and which our own mothers never had at all. Then, if they're denied, there's a scene. Yet many of them come from the finest people and the loveliest homes. But you'd never guess it from the way they act!

"I think of my own parents. They were wonderful to us, gave us everything they possibly could. But there was no fooling in our home; their word was law and we knew it. I realize now that Mother must have had a pretty dull time when we were growing up; she hardly ever went out. But was she right and are we wrong? SHOULD MOTHERS ACCEPT DULL TIMES WHEN THEIR FAMILIES ARE YOUNG? HAVE WE GROWN SO SELFISH THAT WE ARE LETTING OUR CHILDREN BECOME HOODLUMS?

"Recently I saw three exhibitions in public that would have created a village scandal in my youth. I didn't know the young people but they were all in their 'teens, nicely dressed and apparently well brought up. But—

"The first young couple was parked on the highway and indulging in the frankest 'petting party' I have ever seen. It was still light . . . and everyone stopped to stare, but the youngsters didn't give it a thought. In the next group there were three girls—none over 17—two of them helping the third out of a smart cocktail bar. All three were smoking and had, obviously been drinking. The barkeeper looked a little concerned but everyone else seemed to take it for granted.

"The last sight was at a grammar school party. Most of the children were dressed in the best taste and acting accordingly. But one little girl—not a day over 13—was so undressed she looked as if she'd come from a burlesque show. Her poor, skinny little body looked like a picked chicken. Her face was smeared with makeup and mascara. She should have been in her bed. Instead she was screeching, flinging herself into a rhumba.

"I'm not saying these children are doomed. I'm sure they're not. But the thing that really shocks me is our adult attitude toward it all. Once, every decent older person would have felt dutybound to make some protest against such displays. Now we shrug our shoulders, say it isn't our business. And if we do try to take a stand, the neighbors say we are old fogies and pity the children. Naturally, the children feel justified in doing anything they want, sneaking out if we won't let them go openly.

"An American Mother."

So there it is. Now for your answer—?

Hospital Care At Moderate Cost.

—By DR. CLENDENING

I AM in receipt of an account of the operation of the Baker Memorial Hospital in Boston for people of moderate means. This report covers the period of its existence from 1930 to 1939.

The idea of a hospital where people of moderate means could have access to modern skills in diagnosis and treatment was suggested as long ago as 1910 by Dr. Frederic A. Washburn, Director of Massachusetts General Hospital. In 1924 Mrs. Mary Richardson contributed a generous gift for such a hospital in memory of her parents, Richard Baker, Jr., and Ellen Maria Baker.

For Those of Slender Means.

The idea of the hospital hardly needs any elaboration beyond the mere statement of its purpose. "People of moderate means" which is a sufficiently understandable designation, were receiving less efficient care in the case of sickness than others of the community.

Self-respect prevented them from applying for free ward care and their resources would not permit them to apply to a private hospital for treatment where rates must necessarily be higher since the private hospital must be self-supporting. The result was that their physicians were not able to give them the benefit of all the modern resources of diagnosis, examination and treatment.

Satisfactory Record.

Such was the theory and whatever theoretical objection the medical profession may have to it, the record of the hospital for ten years has been entirely satisfactory.

The patient at the Baker Memorial Hospital pays from $4.50 to $6.00 a day according to the desirability of the room. Insurance cases in the nine-bed ward pay $6.00 to $24 per week and patients with tuberculosis pay the same. The laboratory fee for special procedures is $10. X-ray from $5.00 to $50. Routine laboratory work not of a special character is included in the fee for a room.

The staff of physicians and surgeons agree upon an upper limit of $150, payable by any patient for medical and surgical service. The average fee is about $70 for each patient.

Nursing Service Excellent.

In 1939 there was an average of 208 patients a day and during the year there were 573 births. There were over 3,000 surgical operations and 1,600 medical patients.

In a questionnaire sent to patients the replies showed that 94 per cent of patients were satisfied and often enthusiastic about the nursing service. Only about 12 per cent of the replies expressed criticisms of the coffee, radio service, time of meals or other details.

The payment of the attending physician or surgeon through the hospital was approved as fair and convenient by most of the patients. About one-third said they would not have known otherwise how to secure hospital care.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Rule of Thumb."

Implying the administration of rough justice or the sense of approximation and guesswork as against exactitude and science, "rule of thumb" is a reference to the days when the expression had a literal significance.

The allusion is to measuring by using the thumb as the equivalent of an inch rule, a practise formerly prevalent in the home, and even with those working at clothing, carpentry and other trades.

An early literary use of the phrase is in Goldsmith's She Stoops to Conquer, published in 1773.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

America First Committee's Plans Sunk By Japan's Surprise Attack

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Those who knew General Douglas MacArthur in France are not surprised at the superb job he is doing in defending the Philippines.

During the last war he was one of the army's bravest and most picturesque higher officers. Once when he wanted some information about the enemy he went over the top himself, took a German dugout by surprise and came back with a prisoner. He got bawled out for it, because no general is supposed to expose himself to fire. But his men worshipped him.

As chief of staff in Washington during the Hoover administration, MacArthur was an energetic go-getter for anything the army needed, and a good organizer. In the Philippines this organizing ability has been one of his greatest assets, for he has had the task not only of building up a Philippine army, but getting co-operation with the U. S. army, the air corps and the marines.

Incidentally, MacArthur is following in the footsteps of a soldier father, General Arthur MacArthur, who became famous for cleaning up the Philippines after the Spanish-American war.

America First.

ONE PLACE where the surprise Japanese assault really created consternation was in inner America First circles.

The isolationist generalissimos were as completely sunk as the ships bombed to the bottom of Pearl Harbor.

Just a week previous, America First leaders had embarked on a new line of operations—open political activity—and had even gone so far as to spend a large sum of money for the campaign of an isolationist candidate in the Seventh Massachusetts district.

Their No. 1 limelight attraction, ex-hero Lindbergh, was all set to take the stump in this fight. Also, he was quietly weighing whether to toss his hat into the 1942 congressional elections arena.

But the Japanese attack blasted all these ambitious schemes to smithereens—including the America First committee itself—though not until after a sharp dispute among the inner leaders.

They split over the future of the organization. One group, led by General Robert Wood, favored immediate dissolution and full support of President Roosevelt in the prosecution of the war. Another group wanted to hold off for a while to see what developed.

Politics First.

AMONG those who wanted to wait were Edwin S. Webster, secretary of the New York chapter, and leaders of the Bronx chapter, all bitter Roosevelt haters. Webster felt so hotly over dissolution of the committee that he talked of rushing out to Chicago to try to persuade Wood to change his mind.

He contended the America First organization should be kept intact to take advantage of any opportunities for continued political warring on the president; and to oppose any presidential candidate who advocated Roosevelt policies in 1944.

Lindbergh is Webster's White House candidate and he wants America First to stay in business to push the flyer. Webster has certain opinions about the outcome and aftermath of the war and thinks there is a big political future for Lindbergh.

Following a meeting of the America First executive committee in Chicago, however, General Wood's plan was approved and the disbanding order went out.

Note—Certain leaders of the die-hard faction consider starting a new America First organization under different trappings. The new outfit would take the guise of a super-patriotic movement beating the drums for ultra-nationalism.

"Strictest Confidence."

MEMBERS of the senate naval affairs committee know the whole story of what happened at Pearl Harbor, including the reasons why U. S. forces were caught napping.

They were given a detailed account of the disaster by their chairman, Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, after he and Representative Carl Vinson of Georgia, chairman of the house naval affairs committee, were given a confidential fill-in by Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations.

Walsh gave his colleagues the information in "strictest confidence," and on condition they wouldn't breathe a word to anyone, even their wives. Vinson, however, was less trusting. The Georgian flatly refused to tell his committee what he had learned from Stark, insisting it was up to the president to make known the facts at the proper time.

The president hit the ceiling when he heard about Stark's off the record disclosures. Calling Stark on the carpet, he bluntly demanded why the admiral had not consulted him before talking to Walsh and Vinson. Stark replied that he thought he was acting with White House approval and that as all members of congress were clamoring for information about the Pearl Harbor disaster, he thought responsible leaders such as chairmen of the naval committees were entitled to know.

The president said he realized this, but is was too early to make a report. He also tartly reminded the navy chief of the number of news leaks on the Hill.

Stark suddenly called off his scheduled appearance before Vinson's committee.

Note—Naval circles say the Japanese must know the extent of the damage caused by their air attack, since, after the first wave of bombers, the second wave gets photographs which show the extent of the damage, and the third wave gets final photos of the fires and sinkings.

BLACKOUT TIP: If your windows are equipped with Venetian blinds, adjust them at night so that the slats turn upward on the inside. However, don't depend upon this alone for total blackout precautions. Special blackout curtains or drapes are safer. . . . The outbreak of the war obscured the incident, but the house ate crow in a big way on its action last summer barring David Lasser, former head of the Workers Alliance, from government employment. After a careful investigation, the appropriations committee completely exonerated Lasser of any Communist affiliations. Representatives John Taber, N. Y., J. W. Ditter, Pa., and Everett Dirksen, Ill., who made the original accusation ducked the committee session when Lasser was cleared. . . . Best tobacco juice marksman in congress is Representative A. Willis Robertson of Virginia. He can hit a cuspidor at ten paces.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I don't know who he was. Can't ever remember hearing his name. But whoever he was, long ago and far away some bleached out old sourdough slid off his tired burro in the late afternoon, squinted through the alkali haze, and drawled, "Thar's gold in them hills."

He was right about the gold, all right, but he was wrong about the hills. Them wasn't hills. What he thought was hills couldn't have been anything but a brand new copy of the New Yorker magazine.

I offer this as proof: five sets of playwrights have dramatized five different series of articles from the New Yorker into five outstanding Broadway hits. That's bonanza. That's pay dirt the old Silver City way. When I think how hard they must work just bending over picking up the nuggets, I have to sit down and rest.

You want a tag to those lodes? They popped in this order: (a) Life With Father, (b) My Sister Eileen, (c) Pal Joey, (d) Mr. and Mrs. North, (e) Junior Miss.

BUT wait, podnah, that ain't all. Comes next "Hotel Splendide," which was a New Yorker sequence, is already a book, and soon will be a Rodgers & Hart musical.

"Life With Father," "Pal Joey," "My Sister Eileen" and "Junior Miss" are still running. Junior is the baby of the lot, and when it arrived all the critics yelled in chorus, "The town has a new hit." I think this is a record unequalled anywhere in the annals of the theater.

BERT ALLERTON used to be an oil salesman, but he decided he would have more fun being a magician. Presto, he became one, and consider yourself lucky if, on your rounds of New York, he drifts over to your table. Bert deals in magic close-up, and at our table at the Pierre the other night he changed the color and size of a deck of cards, made sponges multiply and disappear, drove a glass tumbler through a table. Gray-haired, but with a dapper black mustache, Bert is one of those fellows you feel you have known for years. Best of his tricks has nothing to do with magic. He pencils some bird tracks on a piece of paper, outlines them swiftly in black, and before you can say Dnieproperetrovsk there is your own name.

IT TURNED out to be a good break for Monica Moore when the Australian girl came to these shores as a singer with the International Casino. She has been kept busy since, with an intimate kind of give-and-take which keeps supper crowds (not her, y'unnerstan') from being self-conscious. A two-week engagement at the Cafe Pierre stretched into months, to be followed by 16 weeks this winter in the Latin Quarter at Miami Beach. When some of the "we who are about to die" Australian pilots come to New York for a fling, Monica was one of those who grabbed the checks.

A Farmer's Diary

Dirt on My Shoes

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

SOME columnists write of Broadway; some sing the praises of the Loop. Many love the surge and hum of the big city—and I do not blame them. Cities are fascinating. But let me go into a barn where the hay is stored and bury my face in the fragrant mow and stretch full length upon the softness of it, and I find solacing memories that renew my strength

Although withered, dry and aging it still contains the sunshine of the summer meadow, the dew of early morning with the sweet note of the meadow lark and the little grassy hollows filled with long thin zones of fog; the buttercup that stands open toward the rising sun, the purple morning glory and the fresh, moist daisy.

And there along the openings between the rails of rustic fence the chipmunk rushes headlong, then sits high on a nearby stump and chatters noisily; the lumbering groundhog flexes his flimsy muscles from the clover pasture to his place of cover.

The fragrant elder at the corners of the old rail fence holds high its creamy heads of lace; purple cones of luscious raspberries mingle with the sprightly clusters of red and green; the blue-eyed grass reflects the color of the sky.

The mower comes, powered by two heavy horses; the thick moist swath dances on the vibrating cutterbar and falls back upon the bleeding stubbles; the drab brood-ing pheasant calls low in terror and thunders from before the cruel knives. In the warm sunny afternoon the long green windrows, like giant serpents, bind in the center the uncut grass. The same team lazily pulls the loader until the mighty load is high above the uprights, the driver a mere dot, the team pigmies before the moving hay.

Summer days are warm and working hours are long and tiresome, yet there is peculiar joy in the farmer's way of life.

It is a freer, more natural, more secluded way. The sunshine, the wind, the rain, the wideness of the open spaces, challenge every nature loving heart.

The dirt of the fields and roadside ditches is always on my shoes, even when I go to town. I am not embarrassed not to know the celebrities who frequent the night spots of Broadway. They are not embarrassed, either. Brilliant stars of Hollywood do not shine on my horizon.

I am much happier to be on speaking terms with the graceful, gliding swallow; to know the smell of hay, the odor of freshly turned earth; to work with my hands until my heart is warmed toward other workers, everywhere; instead of city bright lights, to behold the heavenly stars.

JAPS LAND IN BORNEO, SPREAD 3-WAY ATTACK

Dutch Score Hit on Enemy Destroyer; Nipponese Gain In Malaya.

forces destroyed oil refineries, wells and other machinery and withdrew before the invaders landed.

This was the newest spread of Japan's tactics of scattered blows, all correlated with the chief drive against Singapore, the core of Britain's far eastern defenses.

Besides landing on northern Malaya, 400 miles north of Singapore, and attacking through quickly-dominated Thailand, the Japanese also have seized the mainland region of Hongkong, Britain's No. 2 far eastern stronghold.

On the northwest Malaya front, where the Japanese are smashing forward in a drive aimed at Singapore, advices reaching London said Japanese troops, fighting like fanatics, were throwing themselves into the teeth of British artillery and machine-gun fire in perhaps the heaviest battle of the Far East theater.

With the fate of northwest Malaya and its principal city and island base, Penang, apparently at stake, British troops were reported violently counter-attacking the Japanese invaders Singapore lies about 400 miles south of the battle area, on the tip of the Malay peninsula.

British military observers said the acknowledged inability of the British Far East fleet to dominate Malaya waters and Thailand's quick sell-out to Japan had gravely heightened Singapore's danger from the Japanese drive through Malaya

Japanese troops, pouring into the fight from Thailand, were admittedly well-equipped and operating with strong aerial support.

Hongkong Awaiting All-Out Attack

HONGKONG—(INS)—British forces in Hongkong were on the alert today to meet all Japanese attacks, whether by land, sea or air.

With heavy air and artillery assaults already under way, authorities were fully prepared to resist to the utmost an expected all-out Japanese effort to seize this strategic British Far Eastern outpost.

Jap planes dropped pamphlets on Hongkong setting forth fantastic claims in an effort to scare residents of the British crown colony.

These leaflets claimed the Japanese are advancing into India and even said the Germans have captured Moscow—evidently giving a picture of Japanese wishful thinking at its most fanciful

Chinese Press Canton Attack

CHUNGKING—(Radio Chungking, heard by the United Press in London)—Chinese troops counter-attacking in the Canton area are making progress against the Japanese in efforts to relieve Japanese pressure on Hongkong, a Chinese government communique said today.

On Sunday, according to the communique, the Chinese recaptured an important village adjacent to the Kowloon-Canton railway.

Study Reports Japs Take Portuguese Isle

LONDON—(U.P.)—A foreign office commentator said today that the British government was "in touch" with Portugal on reports that the Japanese had occupied the Portuguese island of Macao off the China coast near Hongkong and intimated that Portugal might be involved in the war if the reports proved true

LISBON—(U.P.)—Reports abroad that Japanese forces had occupied the Portuguese island of Macao 35 miles west of Hongkong, were denied by a government spokesman today.

Expect Change In British Command

LONDON—(INS)—Changes in the British Far Eastern command as a result of reverses in Malaya were predicted in London today

While the London press unanimously demanded "fresh blood" to recoup losses already suffered, there was a strong likelihood that all available fighter and naval reinforcements would be dispatched to Malaya without delay.

There was a storm of criticism over handling of the situation both in and out of parliament.

The News Chronicle boldly came out with a demand that the men responsible for the present Malayan situation "should ruthlessly be deprived of their commands" whether to make any recommendations for action or simply to submit their findings.

Shultz said that he hoped to confer with Porch before tonight's meeting to make a decision.

He indicated that the moves contemplated would cost in the neighborhood of $6,000 to $7,000.

City Solicitor Marion D. Ward, jr, said today that the mayor had not asked him to draw up appropriation legislation of any kind as yet

The mayor said tonight's meeting would not be "secret" but open to the public.

Among the protection moves suggested at the meeting a week ago were the fencing in of the Maxwell springs pumping station, Woodland reservoir and installation of flood-lighting of those properties

It is expected however that some action would be taken upon the suggestion made by Police Chief Meade K. Bates to council last week-end when that body met in "secret" but informal session with police and defense officials.

At that time Bates suggested that council hire guards to patrol the city's water-pumping station at Maxwell Springs and the Woodland reservoir, and that residents using the road passing the station be checked by some kind of identification system.

The police chief also informed council that it would be well to transfer the police radio station from the basement to the third floor in order to insure the maintenance of the police communication system. Other suggestions by Bates included screening the windows of the police station and the pumping station.

When all America calls for the best, it's a large order

America always makes up its mind about quality slowly and carefully. But, once it is certain that a product is the best of its kind, America quickly demands its production on a tremendous scale.

With more Budweiser than ever before, there has not been enough to go 'round

Never before in history has there been a situation like this:

A vast expansion program carried on for eight years made it possible for the world's largest brewery to produce more beer in 1941 than ever before has come from a single brewery or group of breweries operating under one management — and yet it was impossible for us to fill all orders.

Such a demand, previously unheard of for any similar product, made it difficult to maintain adequate distribution in all of the 48 states at all times. Through it all, our dealers have shown great patience and for this we are grateful.

America prefers Budweiser. Your own preference for Budweiser is a compliment to your own good taste — proof that you recognize the outstanding quality that has made Budweiser the biggest-selling beer in history.

With the completion of our expansion program, we trust that you now are getting Budweiser whenever you call for it.

NEW SQUABBLE BETWEEN CITY, COUNTY LOOMS

McPherson Street Sewer Job Forms Basis of New Scrap With Commissioners.

Richland county commissioners, who have already been in a dispute over what share they should pay for the construction of the North Main street bridge, are about to become involved in another.

Members of city council have for many months been attempting to get the commissioners to contribute toward the construction of a storm sewer near McPherson street to drain a natural waterway which plays hob with many residents' property during the spring and fall.

Council argues that the stream originates in the county and flows into the city as a "live stream" and that the commisisoners are responsible for any damage caused by the water. In return, the commissioners claim that the flood trouble is caused by city drainage into the stream.

Council has indicated that the city is willing to appropriate $1,500 toward the cost of the sewer if the county will give another $1,000.

Although this had been agreed to, verbally, no written transaction has taken place. Last week, County Engineer Howard Sword informed council that the county stood ready to donate the use of county machinery for the project up to $1,000.

Councilman George C. Kyle, chairman of the sewers committee, points out that $1,000 in cash and the use of machinery up to $1,000 are "two very different matters."

"That would leave us with the cost of labor and the maintenance of the machinery, adding about $600 to our costs," said Kyle. "Our $1,500 will just about buy the pipe necessary for the sewer and if the county will use their machinery and pay men to put the pipe in place, it will cost them only about $600 or $700."

"If they continue in that vein," said Kyle, "the sewer committee is in favor of giving them the $1,500 and letting them do the job."

Hollywood Has a Slum Clearance Drive of Its Own

HOLLYWOOD—(INS)— The nation's slum clearance program has spread to Hollywood's movie sets.

Carpenters are busy demolishing tenement districts and converting them into rural residential sections.

Since, of course, no one lives in the sets, the activity has nothing to do, at least directly, with better housing.

It is the result of a new trend in pictures in which the accent is placed on stories dealing with small-town life.

There are too many tenement district sets. Not enough small town sets. Hence, the slum clearance program.

FAMILY OF SIX WORTHY OF AID FOR CHRISTMAS

Holiday Dinner and Clothing Would Bring Cheer; Other Cases Listed.

Christmas by Case 19 because of sacrifices to meet other needs, and in addition to a holiday dinner, clothing for the children would assist the family in helping solve their problem.

More than 400 cases similar to No. 19, or worse, have been listed with the Mansfield Community Fund by churches, factories, social agencies, Red Cross and other civic organizations in the hopes that no family need face a cheerless Christmas through lack of a Christmas dinner.

Acting as a clearing house in order to prevent duplication, the Community Fund office has already had offers from organizations and individuals to supply more than half the 400 listed. Families not adopted in the Give-a-Christmas program will be provided with baskets and dinners through the efforts of the Community Christmas sponsors, The News-Journal and Junior Association of Commerce.

The nucleus fund for these baskets was raised through a benefit performance last week and will be supplemented by voluntary donations which may be sent to the treasurer of the Community Fund, Paul Eliot.

Meanwhile, The News-Journal will continue to publish case histories so that Mansfielders may choose their own families for "adoption." Arrangements for this may be made by calling the Community Fund office at 3599-6. Here are more cases:

CASE NO. 17

Mother and son. Woman makes desperate offort to be self-supporting and in summer manages fairly well. Larger service bills in winter makes it impossible on her meager income. Good used clothing and a Christmas basket needed here.

CASE NO. 18

Three adults and four children of school age. Woman tries very hard but father is irresponsible. Family usually in dire want. Mother deeply distressed about her children's Christmas. Need good used clothing and anything and everything in food line.

CASE NO 19

Man and wife and four children. Ages of children range from 13 down to 8. Man works and has small steady income. Meets bare necessities and spends the remainder in fixing up an old house which he purchased. Has greatly improved it and the family's living standards along with it. Works on it himself, and is very eager to better his lot. Because of sacrifices to meet other ends, there is no provision for Christmas. Children need clothing.

CASE NO. 20

Borderline case with income of $22 a week insufficient to cover necessities for a family of seven —the parents and five children, all of whom are under seven years. Only on relief rolls once, after an illness. Although they need both food and clothing, they are reluctant to take it from others.

CASE NO. 21

Father and seven children. Mother died last year and father is making an effort to keep the children together. The older children are boys, which leaves a young school girl to struggle with the household problems. A child, 7, is in delicate health. A good case for a Mothers club or large group of women since the need is great.

CASE NO. 22

Father and mothe.. six children—all under 12—and another child expected. Man earns $22 a week and pays one week's wages for rent. Housing conditions are bad and family is cramped for space. Children all obviously underprivileged.

CASE NO. 23

Five children, mostly grown, and the father and mother. Father works on WPA and the older children all work and contribute something from their meager earnings. Doctor bills and others are a constant drag on the family's income.

CASE NO. 24

Family of eight. Ages of six children range from 5 to 17 years. Buying a small home with small monthly payments. Father lost job three weeks ago. A small son's paper route provides only money for food. Home shows an effort is made to keep it pleasant and livable.

Two-Man Subs Used By Japs In Hawaii Attack

Released by the navy department in Washington, these are the first pictures to reach the U. S. mainland of the Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, attack by Japan. They show the midget, two-man Japanese submarine, captured by the U. S. on the Island of Oahu (Honolulu) during the Dec. 7 action there. Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox revealed that the U. S. had lost six ships and suffered 3,802 casualties, including 2,897 dead in the treacherous Japanese attack. The two-man Japanese subs have a 200-mile cruising range and the one shown in the two views above apparently made a 100-mile run to join in the attack, according to naval experts. The submarines could be carried on the decks of the larger vessels and launched overside, navy men said. The midget subs are 41 feet long and carry two 18-inch torpedoes and approximately 300 pounds of explosives.

PRIORITIES PUT HEAVY HAND ON BUILDING HERE

Home Construction Falls Off as Contractors Experience Problem In Materials.

Priority restrictions are making themselves felt very strongly on Mansfield's building front. Although many new defense housing projects were started during the middle of the year, private construction of family homes has fallen off, dragging 1941's building record down below that of 1940.

In 1940, Mansfielders built 266 new homes and in 1941 they built 264. The great difference is not in the total figure but in the end-of-the-year slump, city hall attaches pointed out.

Building in 1940 continued up to the end of the year in moderate volume. This year, however, only 25 homes were started in September, a loss of four; there were two fewer in October, nine in November and four so far in December.

Economic conditions are not held responsible for the decrease but priorities are blamed. Representatives of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, who are making a survey in the city at present, predict that the slump may continue through 1942.

Prime reason for the delay in new home building, according to Mansfield builders and real estate men, is the difficulty in obtaining heating units, plumbing fixtures and several other articles needed for new homes. The metals and other supplies are needed for defense purposes.

Best month for Mansfield home building during 1941 was June in which 33 homes were started, an increase of 10 over June, 1940. In April, 36 homes were started but this was only one more than in the same month in 1940.

While home building showed a drop of only two, the total of all new building projects, residential, commercial or industrial, dropped from 457 in 1940 to 441 in 1940.

Santa and the WHITE ROSE

by Sigrid Arne

THE STORY SO FAR: Carl, a peasant's son, has caught a witch who was burning the crops in a neighboring kingdom. He is helped by Santa, but Carl doesn't know who his old friend is.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

CLAIMS A WISH

THERE was great excitement at the castle when Carl returned. He galloped his horse into the court-yard and swung down from the saddle. He took the witch from his pocket and handed her to the King, who shouted "Hurrah."

The King stood the little witch up on his hand, but she didn't say anything. She just hung her head. He said to her, "How would you like to take care of the clocks here? Do you think you could do it?"

"Oh, yes, indeed," she said. And that's what she's doing to this day, for all I know.

Carl had chuckled at the conversation but suddenly he became very solemn and quiet. He had seen the Princess Hildur standing behind her father. She wore a pretty blue velvet robe bordered with dark brown fur. She, too, was silent, and she looked at Carl.

Before either of them could say anything the King put his arm about Carl's shoulders and took him into the throne room. There the King made a fine speech and gave Carl a blue leather purse filled with gold pieces.

Carl looked all about him, but he didn't see the girl in the blue dres. Finally he said he must return home.

* * *

HE TOOK Santa with him, and for hours he didn't say a word. Santa wondered. Then Carl said, "I live with kind King Harald and until today I was happy. Now I want to live here. But that will make King Harald, at home, unhappy. What shall I do?"

"Son, each day brings its own work. Just wait," said Santa.

Carl suddenly swung around in his saddle and looked at his companion. He said, "Sire, you are not an ordinary man. I would never have caught the witch without your help. Tell me what to do."

Santa's pink face beamed. "Oh," he said, "I'm a toy-maker."

Carl quickly pulled out the purse of gold coins which the King had given him. "Here," he said, "You deserve this. Sometimes toy-makers are much loved but they don't make a very good living."

Santa hid a smile and took the purse. He certainly didn't need it. But he was glad to see Carl was generous. Santa said, "Carl, you are going back home, and I shall stop at the next village."

They parted at the tavern. Carl headed his horse home, and Santa sat in the tavern till nightfull when he slipped out into the garden and whistled for his reindeer. When they came he hurried home to Toyland.

* * *

BACK in Princess Hildur's Castle there was a celebration because the witch had been caught. Only the Princess slipped away from the party. She was thinking of how brave Carl looked, and she whispered to herself, "Oh, I wish——"

Before she said another word she heard the voice of the second witch saying, "That wish is mine, and I wish to be free."

Hildur jumped up, lit a candle, and looked all about, but she saw nothing. So she put on a white fur robe and prepared to sit up all night to watch.

When the clock struck two she heard frightened twittering from the canary cage on the balcony. She ran to it, and there she saw the second little witch slipping out between the bars of the cage. The canaries lay dead.

"Oh, please don't do that," begged Hildur. The witch laughed and flew away. So for a second time Hildur ran to tell her father, and again he hurried down to the great hall to send out his guards on a search.

TOMORROW: Carl again to the rescue.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

At my question, Mary leaned back in her chair and tapped her lips lightly with the curved forefinger of her left hand, a gesture familiar to me, for it is one she frequently uses when thinking out a troublesome problem.

"Yes, it means just what it says, for one thing," she said at last. "Marion once made me promise that when she should be married, I should send her 'something blue' to wear."

I suppressed a groan, then voiced an agitated disclaimer.

"But, Mary, it must mean something more than that! Didn't I make it clear that Marion's letter to her mother, as interpreted by the code you girls had, gave the distinct message that she was not going to be married?"

"Yes, I understood that," Mary answered. Then she moved a bit impatiently in her chair.

"Please let me think!" she muttered, and with a hasty "Of course," I leaned back in my own chair and waited the outcome of her reverie.

"Oh, if I'd only been more thoughtful at that time, less absorbed in my own affairs!" she burst out, after a long interval, during which neither she nor I had stirred, except for the incessant tapping of her forefinger.

"I can't remember a single thing of any consequence," she went on, "and yet I have a vague feeling that there's something buried deep inside of me that would help, if I only could remember it."

"I remembered my father's admonition to "delve deep into Mary's sub-consciousness," and with a sigh, which I hoped was not audible, I prepared to obey him, but with a necessarily oblique approach.

Different Angle.

"Suppose you give up trying for the moment," I said in matter of fact tones.

She dropped her hand to her lap, and opened her eyes wide at me.

"Why, what do you mean?" she asked. "I thought Grandpa Spencer attached so much importance to my remembering Marion's old childish activities."

"He does." I returned shortly, "but you're getting nowhere trying to dig your memories out by main strength. In fact, I shouldn't wonder but you're really tamping them deeper into whatever crypt they lie in."

"You're probably right, at that," she said, with a rueful shrug of her shoulders. "I seem to be remembering less every minute."

"You see!" I said triumphantly.

"But what am I to do?" she asked a bit wildly. "Marion probably is trying to get an important message to us, and I'm failing her!"

Heads Off Hysteria.

"Stop that nonsense, this minute!" I commanded, for I wanted no incipinet hysteria to hamper my experiment. "You will not have failed Marion, even if you can remember nothing. It will not be your fault—or anyone's, save that of a cruel and inexplicable Fate.

"But you know as well as I do that you can remember nothing with your brain at its present tension. So, suppose you return to your breakfast—it isn't cold, for it's still in the warming oven—and take your mind completely off Marion."

I stooped to the warming oven as I spoke, with a napkin guarding my hand, and took from it the dish of cereal, the hot muffins and the coffee which were ordered for Mary's breakfast. She had eaten her grapefruit dutifully before she had made her valiant attempt to remember the past.

Relaxes At Breakfast.

"Put your mind on the muffins instead of Marion," I told her, trying to make my smile plausible, "and let me see you do full justice to this breakfast.

"I don't mean that we shall avoid mentioning Marion's name," I went on, with what I hoped was a guileless mien; "we hardly can help talking about her. But stop trying to remember anything about that old time."

"I'll be mighty glad to do that" she said palpably relaxing, and for several minutes did full justice to her breakfast. But when she poured her second cup of coffee she put a pertinent question to me.

"Do you think Marion is being ill-treated in any way? For instance—she gave a sudden glance of distaste at the steaming cup in her hand—do you suppose she is getting enough to eat?"

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

THEY'RE ONLY JOKING

Some of the top rank bridge players don't know when a fellow is joking. They think that famous cartoonists, who make fun of people that take out a business double, are so dumb they don't know such a double should sometimes be taken out. That is not so. One of the outstanding comic artists of the day, who makes more fun over taking out business doubles than all of the rest of them put together, is a dog-gone good bridge player, and takes out a business double at the right time, just as does any other sound bidder.

North led his spade 10, the A winning, and West began to build a cross-ruff by leading the diamond 2 to the K. Before West got through, he had ruffed diamond leads in the dummy three times, and also used most of his trumps separately, so that he made an extra trick, for a whale of a score.

South had no business at all in leaving that business double in. He should have called 3-Diamonds over the double of 2-Hearts. North would have raised to 4-Diamonds, whereupon South should have rebid the spades at four. North would, of course, have passed this, and it would have been an air-tight contract. Even with a diamond lead, the defenders could have taken only one trick in spades, one in clubs and a ruff of diamonds.

When you are utterly blank in the opponents' suit, it is seldom wise to leave in a business double by your partner—not because you need any trumps, but because your lack of them makes it likely the opponents have too many to make the double profitable. To a lesser degree, the same principle applies somewhat also if you have a singleton.

Tomorrow's Problem.

Sounds Appeal for 300 Civilian Defense Volunteers

CITY DEFENSE UNIT REPORTS DRIVE LAGGING

Kalbfleisch Says 1,200 Get Application Forms But Fail To Return Them.

An urgent appeal for 300 more volunteers for service in Mansfield's civilian defense program was voiced today as enrollments in the auxiliary police, fire and nurses aid units began to lag.

Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, chairman of the civilian defense committee, said that although 1,200 application blanks had been picked up by citizens at the six enrollment stations in the city, very few additional applications than the 300 reported yesterday had been turned in.

He ascribed this slowing up in enrollments to the fear expressed by many persons that service in the civilian defense program would interfere with regular employment.

"This is definitely not the case," Judge Kalbfleisch said. "The entire program is being set up so as not to interfere with regular work of persons who volunteer for service. This is the reason such detailed information is requested in the application blanks."

It is hoped that 600 persons will have enrolled by Friday evening, when the committee will hold its next regular session. The group plans to institute training programs for the volunteers promptly.

Although individual enrollments slowed up, there was a rush of clubs and other organizations offering co-operation. Eight women's groups and three men's clubs advised Judge Kalbfleisch of their desire to assist. Plans will be set up later for these groups to aid in housing, food conservation, and other general defense work.

Activities of volunteer civilian defense workers in Ohio will be coordinated and directed by Ralph Stone of Conneaut, past state commander of the American Legion, it was announced in Columbus, as the Ohio defense council quickened the tempo of its program to protect civilians from war perils.

Clare Cook, Columbus insurance man, was named head of a committee of "V Men of Ohio," to instruct the public in the operation of the volunteer protective services.

GOP Women's Group Packs 10 Christmas Boxes.

WEST SAYS HE WAS 'ADVISOR'

Denies He Accepted Fees For Obtaining Specific Defense Contracts.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Charles West, former interior undersecretary, told senate investigators today that he was engaged last year for a percentage fee as "business consultant and adviser" in Washington for the Empire Ordnance company, but declared he was not employed to obtain defense contracts.

In reply to questions West testified before the senate defense investigating committee that the Empire company had agreed to pay him 1 per cent on its gross business and that he had brought suit to collect $687,000 which he contended the company owed to him.

West said there was "no truth" in any statement that he had at any time attempted to obtain a defense contract with the United States government or the British government or that he had accepted any fee for obtaining such a contract.

The Empire company through Frank Cohen, West said, employed him in October or November of last year after representing that they wanted "the advice and counsel of some one who knew Washington and knew the government."

"I was never asked at any time to use influence, so-called," West declared, "nor was I offered a fee or commission to get a specific contract."

MEETS TODAY

Hospital Committee To Study New Quarters For Nurses.

Dr. A. O. Fonkalsrud, superintendent of General hospital, announced today that at a meeting of the hospital building and maintenance committee scheduled for 4 p. m. today, plans would be discussed for building an addition to the nurses' home.

"A large part of our graduate nurses have to live in private homes or in apartments now, because we do not have enough room for both student and graduate nurses in the present building," he said.

Fonkalsrud also said that the proposed addition to the nurses' home would also include facilities for housing and training a larger number of students.

He pointed out, however, that as yet the plan was tentative, adding that priorities on building supplies might cancel such plans for the present.

BENNY, NATIVE HAWAIIAN, TAKES HIS ISLAND BACK FROM JAPS

(By United Press)

WAIMEA, Kauai Island, T. H.—This is the story of how Benny Kanahele, a descendant of ancient Hawaiian warriors, recaptured his island from the Japanese, though he had been wounded three times.

He and his wife live on Niihau island, which is 16 miles long and three miles wide, and is 210 miles northwest of Honolulu. Including the Kanaheles, the island has a population of 180 Hawaiians and two Japanese. There is neither a telephone nor a radio on Niihau, and when a Japanese pilot was forced down on the beach Dec. 7, nobody knew he was an enemy.

The pilot was received as a guest, although he was first relieved of his machine gun and sidearms. He made friends with the two Japanese—Harada and Shintani—and Harada recovered his guns for him.

Then the pilot asked Shintani to help him take his papers away from an Hawaiian named Hauila. But Hauila, having become suspicious, had embarked in the midst of a storm with a group of cowboys for Waimea, 15 miles away, to look for help.

The pilot and his two new-found Japanese friends decided to take over the island. They set up their machine gun in the village, and, Kanahele said, "Everybody took to the woods."

The pilot threatened to shoot everybody on the island unless his papers were immediately returned. Pretending friendship, Kanahele and his wife accompanied him on a search through the woods for Hauila.

"However, the pilot became suspicious of me," Kanahele said. "I jumped him as he was handing a shotgun to Harada. The flier shot me with his pistol in the ribs, hip and groin. Then I got mad. I threw him against a stone wall and knocked him out. Then I went for Harada, who tried to shoot himself with the shotgun and succeeded in his second attempt."

When he looked around, his wife was pounding out the pilot's brains with a rock.

Soldiers arrived from Kauai in a few hours and captured Shintani and Harada's wife. They took the prisoners and Kanahele back to Waimea, where Kanahele is recovering in a hospital.

REPORT 162,072 TOOK PART IN PARK ACTIVITIES IN SUMMER

More than 162,072 persons used Mansfield parks last summer, reports showed last night at a meeting of the five park association presidents at the city.

Meeting with Edward Wyllie, president of the Mansfield Parks association, and R. W. Vaughn, president of the city board of park commissioners, the heads of the five volunteer park groups made plans for further expansion in line with the national defense effort and reported that they had spent a total of $4,592.62 for improvements during the past fiscal year.

"With Many Mansfield industries going into seven-day production Mansfielders are not going to have the time to leave the city in search of entertainment," Wyllie said.

"Consequently we are going to have to step up our park programs to provide relaxation and keep workers in Mansfield in trim for the work they have to do," he continued.

Among the projects completed in the parks this year—many of them with the labor of association members—were a new ventilation system for the Prospect park pavilion; a new assembly room, tool and equipment shed and 300 baseball bleacher seats at Johns park; a new boat house roof at North Lake park, insulation of the Liberty park pavilion along with construction of a concrete floor and kitchen for the same building and the construction of 500 bleacher seats at the Liberty park baseball diamond; and construction of shuffle boards, three fire places and the grading of the grounds at Maple Lake park.

During the coming year the association plans further construction work on the parks and the aiding of the new John Todd Park association as it seeks to provide the city with another park area near the intersection of Oak street and Remy avenue.

The Mansfield Park association movement is unique in the nation, Wyllie said, in that it is the only known organization in which volunteer workers seek to aid the city park commission in the construction and maintenance of the park program.

In most cities, he said, the work is maintained entirely by the city.

'GREEN' SEAMEN MAN SHIP TO CHASE ENEMY

Knox Reveals Further Story of Heroism In Attack on Pearl Harbor.

WASHINGTON—Four "green" naval ensigns today joined the ranks of America's heroes in World War II for getting a destroyer under way and giving chase to the Japanese attackers of Pearl Harbor 11 days ago.

The story of the quartet, all members of the naval reserve, was unfolded by Secretary of Navy Knox as he told additional tales of heroism displayed by Uncle Sam's seafaring men at America's Pacific naval base.

It was the secretary's second report to the nation following his return from an inspection tour of the damage wrought by Nipponese bombers on Hawaii. Although he did not identify the four ensigns, Knox said:

"The young reserves, who had never had such responsibility, got the destroyer under way and took her out to sea to pursue the enemy, with the senior ensign in command. The young officers met all emergencies and operated the ship like veterans."

Knox said that many women, including a number widowed a few minutes before in the surprise blow, volunteered immediately for hospital duty. He added that officers and nurses on hospital ships anchored in the harbor had a hard time restraining some of the men confined to bed from joining their shipmates in repelling the attackers.

Despite protestations, Knox said "some of the men did manage to leave the hospital ship and join up with fighting units of the fleet. The secretary disclosed that one chaplain was killed while preparing for church services, which were scheduled to take place on all the large ships. The first bombs fell shortly before "church call" was to have been sounded.

DECLARES PROPER NUTRITION KEEPS U. S. SOLDIERS HEALTHY

Most of the boys in the army gain weight because they get a properly-balanced diet and have their meals at regular hours, Mrs. Julia Kiene, home economist at the Westinghouse plant, said last night at a meeting of the Richland County Nutrition council in Mansfield.

She urged civilians to help build the nation's health through the same methods that the army uses, suggesting that home makers pay more attention to the kind of foods they serve and the methods of preparing them.

Discussing the "vitamin fad" of today, Mrs. Kiene said she believes the nation has finally found the answer to the nutrition problem and is beginning to choose its foods for their beneficial qualities.

Vitamins were not recognized in the United States until 1912, she said. Before that foods which now are said to contain necessary vitamins were just "good for you." Back in 1760 an English sea captain discovered that fresh fruits kept his men from becoming ill, and that really started the search for vitamins, Mrs. Kiene said.

Last night's meeting was in the Chamber of Commerce rooms with the next meeting of the nutrition council's speakers' bureau will be held Jan. 8.

SKIES TO CLEAR, FORECAST SAYS

Moderate Temperatures To Prevail Tonight, Tomorrow.

Today's dreary skies and fog will give way to fair weather and moderate temperatures tonight and Thursday, the weatherman said today.

The city area was saved from slippery streets and roads last night when the mercury remained at 33, one degree above freezing, during the night. A mist that fell late in the afternoon would have frozen with a drop of one or two degrees in the temperature.

The high yesterday was 37 and the day's average was 35, six above the average for the date.

ADD 42 EXTRAS AT POSTOFFICE

Additional Letter Carriers and Clerks Sworn In For Christmas Rush.

As the result of abnormal increases in Christmas mailing, 42 extra clerks and letter carriers were sworn in as temporary postal employes by Postmaster H. E. Homberger this morning.

"This is about 10 more men than we had last year," said Homberger, but he added that there was a greater volume of business this year due to the present emergency.

Homberger said that the 19 clerks and 23 additional carriers would begin working on Friday and continue through Christmas eve, and said that three additional trucks would be in use next week for parcel deliveries.

About 70 per cent of these additional Christmas helpers have worked at the postoffice during the rush season before and are familiar with the procedure. Some, Homberger said, had had four or five seasons' experience. The remaining 30 per cent are new workers chosen on the basis of competitive examinations.

WIN PRIZES

Mansfield Photogs Take Most Honors In Camera Contest.

Mansfield photographers won three out of the four top places in a camera contest conducted by the Ashland Photography club during the past two weeks.

Winners announced last night at a meeting of the Mansfield Photographic society were Victor Bay, first; Clarence Lutt, third; and George Sowers, fourth.

Pictures gathered by the Ashland club were sent to Columbus where Frank Higgins, portrait photographer, judged them.

Announcement of the winners was made at a meeting at Scott's Tavern. Michael Leggett explained methods of judging photographs.

Eugene Funston and Don Burger were in charge of the program. The next meeting will be held Jan. 6 in the club's rooms on the fourth floor of the Farmers' Bank building.

ARREST FOURTH JAP

CLEVELAND —(AP)— The arrest of one Japanese was disclosed today by the local FBI office, bringing to four the number held. Fourteen German and two Italian aliens also are being held by the FBI and immigration bureau agents.

"Here's how advertising WORKS"

"You hear a lot these days about what advertising means to people...how it brings them better goods at lower prices, and makes life more comfortable and more enjoyable. Well, advertising does all that, of course, but I'm more interested in what it does for me as a retailer..."

1. "I'm in business to sell goods, and I've learned about advertising right here at the store counter where results are what count. I've seen how advertising works with my own customers and, believe me, I've got all kinds..."

2. "There's Mrs. Stockbridge, for instance, the banker's wife in that big house up on the hill. She's one of my best customers, and so is Mrs. Brickley, whose husband is a foundry foreman. Both these families have been trading here for years."

3. "I don't know whether Mrs. Brickley and Mrs. Stockbridge read the same magazines or listen to the same radio programs. But I do know that they both read the local newspapers and the ads in them...my ads and my manufacturers' ads."

4. "That's the way it works with all my customers. No matter where or how they live, they all read the local papers. So you can see why newspaper advertising by the manufacturers of the products I carry means more sales for me."

This retailer, like other successful dealers everywhere, knows from his own experience that newspaper advertising is the one medium through which manufacturers can reach all his customers and prospects. That's why manufacturers produce more sales for their retailers...and themselves...when they advertise in local newspapers.

The Walls Came Tumbling + +

By Joseph McCord

CHAPTER XIX

Andy, too, was at his best, fairly scintillating. Amos was more subdued but enjoying himself hugely. Throughout the playing, Carol devoted herself assiduously to her hands, playing cautiously. She wanted to prove Andy was right about her near skill, but, for some reason, she found herself not wanting to appear too good. She never played poker except at home and she wasn't so sure that she cared to give the guest an impression that she was an "addict." The girls he knew probably played contract. For that reason she felt relieved when the final honors went to Amos.

During the refreshments she discovered to her consternation that Mr. Dennison was devoting his attention almost exclusively to her and that Amos and Andy seemed to be abetting him shamelessly. When the "good nights" were said it was Carol who was obliged to see Chester to the front door. As he stood drawing on his gloves he looked down seriously into her face.

"I didn't realize Miss Delaine how much I wanted to be in someone's home . . . until tonight. Thank you so much for the pleasantest hours I have spent in Jericho."

"We were very glad to have you here," she answered. Then some perverse spirit prompted her to add: "It was my father's idea, you know."

"I appreciate that," he laughed. "But don't forget that you did ask me to come in here after our ride to Centertown. Aren't you going to be very kind and repeat the invitation? You see, I want to come again."

"Why, of course," she answered in some confusion. "Please come again."

"You are asking me?"

"Yes."

"Then I will. Good night."

When Carol returned to the dining room Andy was gathering up the cards and chips. Amos was watching him and lighting his pipe for a bedtime smoke. The latter looked at Carol with a twinkle in his eyes as he said between puffs:

"That boy friend of yours . . . 's a hell of a good fella, Carol. Everybody out on the job says so. No side to him."

Carol felt lonely without Andy. This was only the second day, too, Carol thought as she climbed the porch steps in the twilight after a day in the office. It had been a long time since Andy had been away from home and he hadn't been too sure when he left just how long it would be, or where he was going, seemingly.

'Don't you want to take my car?" she had asked teasingly. He had tried driving the coupe once and seemed to find it none too easy.

"Huh! Far be it from me to deprive you of your coop, little duck," he had replied. "I'm not even going to smell gas on this trip or cramp myself in a bus seat. Club car, no less—one with buttons along the wall you can push and have George get something at your elbow now and then. I'm going to forget."

"Forget what?"

"Pants. Pants—pants—pants."

"I wish I were going along with you."

"We must take a little jaunt together before long. You wouldn't care much for this trip. I don't know exactly where it will end up, but I promise it won't be in jail. I should be home for Sunday, I think."

"I hope you will be." Carol realized that he was not going to divulge any further information.

* * *

Tonight, as she sat in her room after supper, she felt quite deserted and wished she had made plans to go out somewhere. She hadn't so she decided to be a good sport and offer her services to Amos as a pinochle partner. He too, probably missed Andy. When the clock in the lower hall chimed eight she started downstairs, pausing on her way in surprise when she heard the door bell. Instinctively she thought of Wige as she went to answer it, he usually arrived on the stroke of the clock. But it would be someone else, now.

She gave another start when the glow of the porch lamp revealed Chester Dennison smiling at her.

"Oh . . . Good evening, Mr. Dennison. Won't you come in?"

'For a few minutes, if you are not engaged."

He strolled into the parlor and helped himself to a chair, adopting Carol's earlier strategy of locating a position where his back was toward the lamp. There was nothing for her to do except take a chair where her own features were displayed clearly. She appreciated the disadvantage, but gave it no particular thought. Her recent meetings with this young man had enabled her to be completely at ease.

"This isn't my party call," he began cheerfully. "I'm saving that one. I dropped in to inquire about your father."

Carol was startled for a second. "He's out of town for a few days," she explained.

"Then that's it. I found his shop closed yesterday and again today. It occurred to me he might be ill. I could have called you at your office, but I was driving by here."

"That was very kind of you. He was quite all right when he left, but it certainly seems strange to have him away."

"Yes? And how are you?"

"Very well, thank you." This solicitude for the Delaines seemed odd.

Dennison talked on casually in the entertaining fashion that Carol had come to associate with him, so different from the first and unpleasant impression he had given. He spoke again of the enjoyable time he had at the card session. And might he light a cigaret in Mrs. Steel's parlor?

* * *

Carol was conscious of a growing impression that Mr. Dennison was just a little ill at ease, although he went on at once to explain that he had just come from an after-supper conference at the contractor's plant office. Everything was coming along in good shape out there. Some machinery had been installed in the first two units and more was on the railroad sidings. He really should be running along to his own office, but it was a temptation to loaf a little.

"Do you work there every night?" Carol inquired.

"Almost. Then I read for a time after I go to bed. Bad habit, but it's about the only opportunity I have. Just now I'm breaking in an office helper." Carol was aware that he stared at her steadily.

'Then you did find someone?"

"Yes. A man . . . very competent, I believe. Lennon is his name. He's employed in the bank, but I will have him full time after the first of the month. He works evenings for me now."

"Wilbur Lennon." Carol's face betrayed no more surprise than her voice. "He's been in the bank for quite a while."

'So it would seem," Chester agreed dryly, "but not long enough to suit his boss. Mr. Higgins appeared to think I had committed an overt act when I hired away his best man. The old gentleman rushed up to see me and he certainly was peeved."

"I imagine Wilbur will be hard to replace . . . here."

"Well, that's Mr. Higgins' tough luck." Chester shrugged his broad shoulders. "I like the way this chap takes hold. It isn't every young fellow who would give up his evenings after a day's work . . . not in these times."

"I suppose not."

* * *

Carol was glad her caller was disposed to drop the subject. She wondered whether anyone could have told him that she and Wige were supposed to have an "understanding." It didn't seem likely, but one never knew in this town. One thing was certain. Wige hadn't volunteered such information.

Dennison pulled himself erect. He peered at Carol. To her amazement he asked suddenly:

'Did you happen to see Pride and Prejudice, Miss Delaine?"

"You mean the picture? No. It hasn't been shown here yet." For an instant she wondered whether he was proposing they go to a movie.

"But you must have read the book."

"Oh, yes. A very long time ago, though."

GEN. JOHNSON: Predict Compromise on Draft Measure

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — Now that we are at war there is no longer any reason for failure to adopt the fundamental principles of our plans for mobilization for total war which were worked out so painstakingly over the past twenty years. These plans were the result of the bitter lessons of 1917-18 when we haltingly and blunderingly pulled ourselves together into that finally efficient organization whose "pitiless war industry" Von Ludendorff credited with the defeat of Germany.

Johnson

Our blunders and delays in that war were due, primarily, to two things. First, a lack of any comprehensive plans for mobilization other than military. Second, a complete lack of understanding of the extent to which war had become a conflict not of armies alone, but of the total economic resources of nations.

This time we had the plans but we have not made full use of them. This time a few people know what "total mobilization of the nation's "economic resources for war" means, but most of us do not. The tremendous scientific advances that have been made in transportation and communications and in the industrialization and mechanization of our society generally and the tremendous backsliding that has occured in the fields of politics, ethics, morals, religion and international decency has made it necessary to revamp our idea of the "nation-at-war." Hitler's model 1941 varies greatly from the "Kaiser's model 1918 and even more vastly from America's model 1918—but the broad outlines are the same.

They are very simple. You must hit the enemy with everything you've got. Every person, material and idea that can be used to destroy the enemy must be used. In order to do this you must mobilize all useful people, materials and ideas at your disposal. You must then organize and integrate them into an efficient machine for the destruction of the enemy. Then, this machine must be competently, skillfully and even craftily directed at the enemy so as to destroy him. All this must be done with the minimum of waste and delay. Above all, it must be done without destroying the very things you are fighting for. This takes a lot of planning and a lot of doing.

We were not caught this time without the planning. It had been done; the plans were there. When advanced in 1939 by Louis Johnson, then assistant secretary of war, they were tossed aside. Why? They were prepared at congressional direction, with the advice and help of all the key participants in our World war effort. They were constantly kept current and brought up to date with the changing political, economic and international scene. Yet they were not adopted. We had to go through all our mistakes of 1917 for the paradoxical reason that "we weren't going to fight this war on any 1917 model." The time lost cannot be regained, but we don't have to lose any more time.

Let us have a war mobilization administration, call it what you will, with full emergency powers to mobilize and direct all our economic resources to win the war. Let it be administered, not by those who have always wanted power to effect political and social changes which the country would never grant them, but by those who have only one purpose at heart—to win the war.

MEET TO GET AGREEMENT TO END STRIKES

Labor, Management, Public Represented In Session at Washington.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Men representing labor, management and the public met here today in an effort to work out an agreement to prevent all work stoppages in war-vital industries.

Some government quarters forecast creation of a new mediation agency, patterned on the 1918 war labor board.

In calling the conference in an endeavor to end strikes during the war emergency, President Roosevelt made it clear that he would be satisfied with nothing short of unanimous agreement.

The conferees—12 men from labor, 12 from industry, and two representing the public—were told that there should be no hesitation on the part of either labor or industry to accept as a basic condition that there should be no interruption of production by labor disputes for the duration.

The conference also had before it a new labor peace offer from the American Federation of Labor. In a declaration of wartime labor policy, the AFL extended the olive branch to the Congress of Industrial Organizations in a brief paragraph which did not directly mention the CIO but which said that labor rivalry had no place in the war-time picture.

"We regret sincerely," the declaration said, ". . . the destructive rivalry in organization that has beset the labor field for the past few years. We hold all such rivalries and jurisdictional conflicts have no place in an emergency such as faces America and the world today. We, therefore, renew our offer for unity in the labor movement and for the common defense of our nation against mortal danger. We hope our call to this end may not be in vain."

CIO officials indicated that they would answer this appeal soon after today's conference convened. They, too, worked yesterday on a policy declaration, but planned to make it public only after it had been submitted to the conference.

BRING A CAN, SEE A MOVIE AND HELP FILL A CHRISTMAS BASKET

Cans of fruit, vegetables and other foodstuffs that will help round-out the Christmas dinners to be supplied to scores of needy Mansfield families through the Community Christmas organization will be the only "price of admission" to the canned food matinee scheduled at the Madison theater Saturday at 9:30 a. m.

Sponsored by the Junior Association of Commerce, co-sponsor with The Mansfield News-Journal in the Community Christmas program that suplies the baskets, the matinee offers Mansfield people another opportunity to brighten the holiday of the unfortunate by their donations.

At least 600 cans are needed to adequately supply the baskets and unless they are donated at the matinee the Community Christmas sponsors will be forced to buy them. Funds from the recent benefit performance held to raise money for the baskets will be needed to buy the large number of other commodities including meat, butter and potatoes required by each basket.

Only foodstuffs canned in tin will be acceptable due to the breakage of glass jars and at least one can of food must be presented at the door by every person attending the matinee. But there is no limit on the amount they may bring, the sponsors announce.

Open to adults and children alike the matinee offers a complete picture bill including a feature production, comedy and short subjects obtained especially for this program by the Madison management. Doors will open at 9 a. m. and the show will start promptly at 9:30 a. m.

CONGRESSMEN SEE 20-44 AS LIKELY LIMIT

Expect House and Senate To Pass Separate Bills Then Settle Differences.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Well-informed congressmen said today that pending draft extension measures in the house and senate might be compromised to provide for active military service for men from 20 through 44, inclusive.

Legislation scheduled for house debate today put a floor of 21 below which men could not be inducted, but a similar senate bill would permit the selective service system to dip down to those 19 or older—as requested by the war department.

Many members expressed the opinion that the two chambers would pass the bills in those divergent forms and that a joint senate-house conference committee would compromise at 20.

Both measures call for the registration of all men from 18 through 64, inclusive, which, including the 17,500,000 already registered would affect an estimated 41,000,000 men.

There were indications that the major fight over the legislation in the house would involve the age limit for active service. Other amendments may be offered, however, which would preclude active military service for men under 20 unless they had been trained for at least 12 months.

Still others were designed to direct the war department to induct married men whose wives or other dependents are not entirely dependent on them.

Rep. Faddis (D-Pa), military committeeman, said yesterday, he doubted the wisdom of going below 21 for new soldiers and joined other committeemen in expressing belief that at least 4,000,000 men could be obtained for the army if the 21 through 44 brackets were used.

On the senate side, Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky) said he hoped to get the draft extension legislation to the floor during the day but added it was unlikely his chamber would act before tomorrow.

Germans Have to Run, Boys Steal All Their Cranks

MOSCOW—(AP)—The Germans were caught without crank handles to start their motors because all had been stolen by Russian boys, a writer in Izvestia reported from a village beyond recaptured Klin today.

Terming it "an incident as heroic as it is funny," the writer, Evgenii Petrov, said the Germans then "had to run in a most natural manner, using their own feet."

"The boys were the first to scent that the Germans were about to flee," said his account. "They pilfered all the handles. . . . as soon as our troops appeared in the village the boys solemnly presented them with the handles."

Hold the everything!

The doghouse in which the Tygers and the Bulldogs will play at the basketball in Canton come Friday night has finally been definitely decided upon.

The game is to be in the McKinley music room.

That I have on the authority of the Canton Repository, and so I've no reason to doubt it.

* * *

Now if Vern Hoffman can get his jitterbugs jivin' in time to feel at home—

But I fear the McKinleys have the edge there. It won't be the first time the doghouse (bass fiddle to you music lovers) has been moved into the music room.

* * *

Drop everything, stand up and sing,
As through the strings the pellet zings.

* * *

Sounds kinda asinine doesn't it? But no more so, my friends, than donkeys playing basketball on the high school gym floor tonight. And you can kick that one around all you care to.

That high school cage court can very well become a music room tonight if those donks start singing.

* * *

Hey, hey, Farmer Grey,
When we bray
We bray for hay!
Yeah Donks.

(Maybe Ike Emmons can use that yell for his team. He can have it.)

Noblesse oblige.

Recently Bill McKee of the Ashland Times Gazette reported that at a meeting of the North Central Ohio league, scribes concurred in the belief that the N. C. O. cage title was a toss-up between Mt. Vernon and Marion.

Now Spiv Harris in the Mt. Vernon News picks Ashland as the league winner.

Let's get together on this, boys.

Westinghouse Continues Undefeated In League Race

Cooks Blue Goose For Fifth Win; Yunckers Win In Overtime Period; Athletics Run Wild On City News

THE Westinghouse Electrics cooked a goose last night at the Senior high gym. The Blue Goose Sohioans were done to a turn at 28 to 20. This leaves the Westinghouse five games out in front in the first round of play.

The game started slow as each team was cautious and both played defensive ball. The first quarter scoring consisted of four foul shots for the Sohioans and one last second bucket for the Westies. The second stanza gained tempo with the Westies leading 13 to 11 at the half.

* * *

Shade, Poole and Richards contributed points in the third period for the Electrics while De Nero and Wilkens hit for the Geese. There were only six points difference when the horn blew for the end of the quarter. The Westies were still in the lead 22 to 16.

Richards tossed in two to start the last quarter. Shade followed with a pivot shot. Bogantz threw two long shots and connected as the quarter faded but Poole came back with the final bucket to end the scoring.

The height of the Westinghouse team was their biggest asset. The Sohioans had a hard time controlling any rebounds but at various times with their fast breakout they stole the ball from the Westies. Poole hit nine points to lead his team while the Blue Goose scoring was divided among Willard Lockhart, Bogantz and Doug De Nero.

It was all-county night when the Yuncker Sports met the Ohio Public Service team for the first game of the evening. The O. P. S. quint just came that close to beating the Sports and it was only after a rally in the overtime period that the Sports forged ahead to win.

Both teams are made up of county league players from Lucas, Lexington and Springfield Township alumni. It was former teammate against teammate with a sprinkling of opponents and that adds up to scrap.

The O. P. S. team grimly held onto the lead throughout three quarters of hectic battle. Then the Sports put on a scoring spree to tie up the game with three straight buckets. The regular period of play ended at 24 all.

* * *

The three minute overtime started in favor of the Electrics when Crawford dropped in a pivot shot. Then the rain came. A rain of five consecutive baskets for the Sports to ice the game 33 to 30. Crawford and Downs hit the hoop in the last few seconds to close the gap.

* * *

Big Bob Crawford and Burton held 10 points each, while Roberts, Gilliland and Wade led the Sports scoring.

* * *

The new score board at the Senior high only registers 59 points and the Athletics rang the bell for the cigar when they used the highest combination of digits defeating the City News 59 to 18.

* * *

The score would not have been nearly so high if the Newsies had not given up when they dropped behind. A lot of the Athletics points came from sucker shots when the Newsies didn't cover the sucker man. The Athletics broke fast down the hardwood for easy scores.

"Mac" McGinty was in there with rebounding on the offense when he batted in 18 points to lead the scoring.

Spear was second high with 12. Phillips missed plenty of sucker shots but he was third in line in the scoring highs.

Plan to Keep America Fit

Military Effort Calls For Physical Fitness.

By ALLAN J. FUNCH

PHILADELPHIA—(INS)—With the grim warning that "there is no prize for second place," John B Kelly, national director of physical fitness in the office of civilian defense, today called upon every American man, woman and child to carry "passports of health."

The former olympic sculling champion has evolved a plan whereby all the citizens of the United States would be issued a small booklet in which would be entered all diseases, operations, and physical ailments suffered by the individual from birth to death.

* * *

"The books would be a 'must' in every person's life in this country," declared Kelly. "It would contain a complete record of the individual's physical fitness, a fitness which in these days of war has become of vital interest to Uncle Sam."

* * *

The robust, red-cheeked Irishman to whom has been entrusted the task of keeping Mr. and Mrs. America fit, pointed out that physical programs play an essential part in defending the United States and keeping its civilian population in shape to take the "shocks and strains it must necessarily undergo for the duration."

"Those soldiers out in Hawaii and the marines at Wake island and Midway are a splendid example of what physical fitness can do," Kelly emphasized.

"The naval officers were taught on the playing field of Annapolis and put their lessons of personal sacrifice and courage to marvelous advantage in the midst of the treacherous Japanese attack," he added.

The 52-year-old director minced no words at the task facing Americans in making themselves physically fit.

"Our civilian defense rests squarely upon the fitness of the men directing it," he said. "Air raid wardens, defense workers, lookouts directors and everyone else connected with the effort must be in tip-top shape or the program will bog down.

* * *

"Americans are fast learning that there is no prize for second place in this struggle."

Kelly explained that arrangements have been completed to tie up profesional and amateur sporting events throughout the country. Wherever possible, he said, the "big names," such as Gene Tunney, Babe Ruth, Jack Dempsey, Judge Kenesaw Landis, Joe Louis and others have been contacted to boost the 'physical fitness medicine.'

"This program will work down from the top right into the grade schools,' he said "We're going to teach the young folks of this country to go out and win"

COLUMBUS BULLS END TOUR ON ARMY ORDER

SAN FRANCISCO — (INS) — The Pacific coast tour of the Columbus Bulls champions of the American professional football loop, appeared ended today after the San Francisco Bay Packers cancelled their game Sunday with the Bulls because of army regulations banning civilian gatherings of 10,000 persons or more.

The Packers also called off their last scheduled game of the Pacific Coast League season, against the San Diego Bombers a week from Sunday.

Lower Draft Hits Colleges

Athletic Officials Say Frosh Might Be Played.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Athletic officials in Cleveland expressed the view today that the proposal to lower the draft age for active service to 19 would seriously cripple college and amateur sports.

* * *

A measure pending in the senate would lower the limit to 19, and some congressional quarters were predicting today that a compromise between the house and senate would set the figure at 20.

* * *

Ray Ride, athletic director at Case School of Applied Science, said if the limit were placed at 19 "the smaller college would be crimped for players. It most likely would mean the use of freshmen to keep up our athletic programs.

* * *

Ashland college and DeSales college at Toledo have cancelled their 1942 grid schedules.

* * *

James A. Lee, secretary of the Northeastern Ohio association of the Amateur Athletic union,, said "the great majority of the boys in amateur athletics, in particular, are between the ages of 18 and 23 and that group would be depleted with the lowering of the draft age."

OREGON STATE PRACTICE CRIMPED BY WET FIELD

CORVALLIS, Ore.—(INS)—With home practice held to a minimum by a flooded field and final examinations, Coach Lon Stiner today planned to entrain his Oregon State football squad Friday night in order to collect as much scrimmage as possible before the Beavers' transplanted Rose Bowl game Jan. 1 with Duke at Durham, N. C.

After stopovers at Chicago and Washington, D. C., the squad of 32 men will establish training quarters at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill, N. C.

Horse Trainers Want Tracks Open

ARCADIA, Calif. — (U.P.) — The possibility that the army might permit racing to continue kept 1,400 of the nation's top thoroughbreds in local stables today.

Virtually no owners and trainers have made plans to ship the animals to other tracks. The management of the Santa Anita track, where the world's richest racing program was scheduled to start Dec. 31, asked Lieut. Gen. John L. Dewitt, western defense commander, to reconsider his order postponing the opening of the race meeting.

Although owners based their protests on the fact that England continued its horse racing under even greater war dangers, Jerry Geisler, chairman of the California Horse Racing board, and Charles H. Strub, general manager at Santa Anita, said they could only keep the track closed until clarification of DeWitt's order.

Whirlaway, the champion of the year, will remain at the track regardless of the cancellation and continue training for summer racing, Trainer Ben Jones reported.

BROMFIELD TALKS

He'll Star In Game Tonight

Here's one of the donks listed in the lineup for the donkey basketball game scheduled tonight at 8 o'clock at the high school gym, sponsored by the school's "M" association.

* * * * *

Donkeys In Shape for Big Game at High School Gym

The donkeys are all in shape and rearin' to go.

That's the latest word from the high school "M" association today as the opening horn for tonight's donkey basketball game at the high school gym was awaited.

Whether the Tygers football players who'll mount one team of donks, and the Downtown Coaches who'll be bestride the other span of braying long-ears are in shape for the ordeal was a question.

There was no question as to the lineup of the Tygers who'll take part in the pastime. Bill Doolittle, Bill Pecht, Ken Smith, Lightnin' Jones and Duke Weber may not be all set, and may not be seated long, but they're ready to go.

An aura of mystery still hangs over the personnel of the Downtown Coaches lineup, and if Head Coach Ned Brooks has something up his sleeve the bulge is not noticeably apparent.

But the D. C.'s will be represented on the floor and on the donkeys' backs, at times, even if the high school coaches and more Tygers have to help them out.

* * *

A wild rush for the center position on the opposing teams has been reported. The center is the only player unmounted. He handles the ball when the rest can't get hold of it, but he isn't allowed to shoot. That takes him out of the starring role automatically, but saves him a lot of embarrassment.

No fouls are called in this contest. The difficulty of explaining foul tactics to a donkey is immediately apparent.

The preliminary game will give fans their first look at a John Simpson team that has been hanging up a good record in early tilts. The junior high hoopsters will meet the high school reserves in a regulation game, without donks, at 7 o'clock, and the donkey game is booked for 8.

Louis to Turn Fight Cash Over to Navy; Baer Won't

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK — (INS) — For the first time in the history of the larcenous business known as boxing the heavyweight champion of the world, Joe Louis, is going to defend his title without remuneration. Here is a standard for all the fighters that may come along next week, next month, next year and thereafter.

In contrast to champions of the past who evaded the draft and never got into the army, and in the meantime fought for charity to bolster their own pocketbooks, Louis first is going to appear once with his title on the line free of charge and then is going to go into the army, or wherever they want him.

If I'm not careful, I will make this a eulogy of Louis. To me he is about to become the unselfish outstanding patriot of these times.

* * *

Getting entirely away from the patriotism involved in his possible going into the army, he is about to defend his world heavyweight championship against Buddy Baer. Louis is going to fight for nothing, and risk his title against the man who knocked him out of the ring in a previous encounter. Promoter Mike Jacobs is handling the show free of charge with all profits to go to the naval relief organization that will get Louis' purse.

This battle is slated for Jan. 9 here in New York and both principals appeared before the New York state athletic commission yesterday for a preliminary checkup.

The only angle subject to criticism in this deal involves Buddy Baer himself. And at this point I wish to take off on him, on his brother Max and on their manager, Ancil Hoffman.

* * *

It will be recalled that Max Baer has been bouncing in and out of the big time for years. It will be recalled, too, that Ancil Hoffman has engineered his repeated comebacks. He also has been the guiding hand behind Buddy Baer, a washed up never was for many months until he got that crack at Louis at Washington and came near winning the heavyweight title.

* * *

Now here is what must burn you up. Mike Jacobs is giving away all his profits from the show and Louis is fighting for nothing, yet Buddy Baer, the challenger, is going to be paid 12½ per cent of the receipts.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—Seems to be open season for suggestions on how the sports program can be made to fit the military program. . . . Joining the rush, how about postponing the building of that basketball Hall of Fame and sinking the dough from the "golden ball" games (which will be played in every state) into defense bonds? There might even be a surplus for the army and navy relief funds. The Naismith memorial wouldn't lose out, either.

EXPLANATION?

Corporal Earl Flora, former Ohio State Journal sports writer now at Randolph Field, Tex., writes Sports Ed. Bob Hooey this explanation of that 71-7 Texas-Oregon score. . . . Story is that just before Duke got the Rose Bowl bid, Oregon State wired Texas that the Longhorns could be invited if they would cancel the Oregon game. . . . Seems the coast boys figured they couldn't "gamble" the Rose Bowl prestige against the chance that Oregon would knock Texas off. . . . So the Texans went out to show them just what sort of a gamble it would have been.

CALLING NAMES.

In Chattanooga, Tenn., they are already calling Duke vs. Oregon State the "Tobacco Bowl." . . . How about a fresh name for an East-West game played in the South? . . . And next Sunday's pro playoff is being tabbed as the "Snow Bowl," which seems appropriate in view of the fact it was so cold in Chicago last week that the papers reported those red-hot Bears froze the ball in the last few seconds of the game.

ODDS—AND SOME ENDS.

The Dodgers have called off negotiations with the Yanks over Dolph Camilli. . . . No wonder the fans are confused about the effect of the war on sports when the army plans to ban all California events that will draw 10,000 at the same time the navy is lining up a huge boxing show at Los Angeles for the benefit of Pearl Harbor victims. . . . Cutt Horrmann, manager of Ray Robinson, picks Sammy Angott to take the unadulterated lightweight title when he fights Lew Jenkins Friday, because of the way Sammy got up and fought back after Robinson floored him twice.

TAKING IT ON THE PUN.

Benny Oosterbaan, Michigan basketball coach who ended his playing career 14 years ago, demonstrated foul-shooting the other day by tossing in ten straight without even looking at the basket. . . . They can't say Benny ain't what he Oosterbaan.

LEADS SCORING, BUT NEVER CARRIED BALL

BLACKSBURG, Va. — (AP) — Roger McLure, Glasgow, W. Va. guard, who never carried the ball, led the Virginia Tech football team in scoring with 24 points. He kicked 12 of 13 extra points and four field goals from placement.

His two-year record with the Tech varsity shows 28 conversions in 30 tries and five field goals in eight attempts — one against V. M. I. for 53 yards.

Shelby Plays Bucyrus Next

Whippets Practice on Neighboring Floors.

SHELBY—Shelby Whippets will play the Bucyrus Redmen here Friday night in the opening North Central Ohio league cage game for both schools this winter.

A preliminary game between the junior varsity teams will start at 7 p. m.

* * *

Shelby has lost one game this winter. That was to Crestline, 17 to 14.

* * *

Last week the drills for the Whippet squad took place on gym floors in neighboring schools as the stage setting for the junior play was up at the gymnasium here. They held scrimmages on the Willard and Crestline floors.

* * *

Four veterans are playing on the Shelby squad. They are Center Dave Clark, Forwards Bob Lauble and Dave Lewis and Guard Junior Keiser.

* * *

Other players expected to see action in the game are Jim Moore, substitute center, and Ralph Higgins, substitute forward. Higgins may be in the starting lineup.

Jackie Wilson Uses One Hand to Win

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— Pittsburgh Jackie Wilson needed only one fist, his left, to decisively outpoint Richie Lemos last night and keep the National Boxing association featherweight championship he won from Richie here Nov. 18.

* * *

The 27-year-old Pittsburgh negro, veteran of 10 years in the ring, calmly set about his work in the first round and either won or drew in all of the first nine.

Wilson flicked his left into the 21-year-old Richie's face so often that the Los Angeles boy's complexion quickly assumed a bright red hue.

Referee Abe Roth gave Wilson seven rounds and Lemos three, with two even. Each boxer just made the 126-pound feather limit.

He is going to be paid to appear on a charity show with a chance to win the heavyweight crown when ordinarily challengers are eager to pay for the chance to meet the champion and would be eager besides to pay some more to charity under the circumstances.

* * *

Inasmuch as this match has been made and the navy relief organization will cash in on it, I wouldn't suggest that it be cancelled. However, the New York commission would be striking a popular note in the future if regulations were passed against the Baers. They have contributed very little worth while to boxing, and when one of them adds to his riches by cashing in on a navy relief program it is just about time to stop them.

LOSES NERVE

SANTA CRUZ, Cal.—(U.P.)—A small fox terrier of Mrs. Laura White mounted guard with his front paws on the steering wheel of her auto and by growling and barking kept a crowd of curious people away while she went to mail a letter.

But when Poundmaster C. E. Graves and the police arrived to see what was up, the dog took just one look at them, jumped through the window of the car and headed full speed for home.

STOCK MARKET SHOWS SLIGHT DOWNWARD TILT

Mild Improvement Move at Opening Fails To Hold Some Issues Gain.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Stocks tilted a little lower today after a mild shift toward improvement at the opening.

The downward swing involved no severe losses and an assortment of industrials was able to retain modest gains. Dealings, fairly broad at the start, slackened near the second hour.

Showing a general spirit of caution it was evident the market was awaiting more decisive news from the far-flung battlefronts, although war reports studied in the boardrooms were regarded as encouraging in the main.

Of interest to business observers was the weekly report of the Edison Electric Institute showing power production at a new record high. Energy use gained 1.8 per cent over preceding week and was 14.2 per cent ahead of the corresponding period last year.

The rise established the Associated Press index of power production at a new 1941 peak.

HAWAII PROBE BOARD MEETS

Army, Navy Careers Hang In Balance During Investigation; May Last 2 Weeks.

Coy, retired; Brig. Gen. Joseph P. McNarney, an active air corps officer; former chief of naval operations William H. Standley, and former commander-in-chief of the United States fleet Joseph M. Reeves. Both naval officers are retired. Reeves had air commands in the navy during his rise to command of the fleet.

They will seek to fix the responsibility for the fact that the armed services were not "on the alert" on Dec. 7 when Japanese planes bombed the fleet and military establishments at America's most important Pacific outpost. The board has the power to call any army or navy officer to its sessions for questioning.

There was general satisfaction with the composition of the board not only in the war and navy departments, which helped select personnel, but in congress where there had been a minor and quickly squelched movement for an independent investigation. The purpose now is to delay any congressional inquiry at least until after the executive branch investigation is completed.

Chairman Carl Vinson, D., K., of the house naval affairs committee said the president had named so outstanding a board that his group would not investigate at all.

Roberts, having obtained leave of absence from Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone, will call the board for organization purposes today and it will proceed shortly — the time is not fixed— to Hawaii. It is estimated that at least a fortnight will be required to organize, reach the islands, investigate and return.
